Will Sees Powers Glad to Cut All Wars But Theirs

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 4.—Just when Secretary Kellogg had his "no more war plan" all going good and about ready to sign up, why England, Japan and France came through with the old usual diplomatic clause which says "we agree in principle, but—"

Well, there was the but, "we are heartily against all wars, unless, of course, we should see fit to do a little fighting ourselves, then, of course, this agreement would be null and void. But we certainly join you in preventing others from having the pleasure of fighting."

If Kellogg can get all us four big nations to agree that Monday follows Sunday without them having "I agree in principle, but—" in it, he will be the world's greatest diplomat.

Yours—
Just an Amateur Diplomat, WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Daylight Savings time went into effect in New Castle on Sunday morning and will continue in effect until the first Sunday of September. The change was effected without much confusion in this city.

What is so rare as a day in June? This morning was anything but the idealistic June day. It was raining, rather cold drizzling rain and there were overhanging clouds that added to the general aspect.

Just a few more hours in the school room and the children will be free for the summer vacation. School sessions end for the summer on Wednesday. Public schools are operating on Eastern Standard time the three days of this week that sessions are being held.

Another step nearer the notable day when the Jameson Memorial hospital will be ready to serve the community took place on Saturday at noon, when in the presence of many interested in the construction and progress of the hospital, the cornerstone was formally laid. The building is well advanced towards completion despite the fact that the cornerstone was only placed Saturday. The stone was laid in a place reserved while building work had been in progress on the exterior of the structure.

To the traveling man this daylight saving time has its horrors. Saturday evening at The Castleton one knight of the road explained to Pa Newc that sometime he was going far away from it all where time would not change and he could be in peace .When asked why, he declared that so far this spring he had been in three towns when the time changed and New Castle made the fourth. But he was quite proud as he has only missed one train because of the jumble.

Another complaint is made against those who clutter up the public square with paper .Sunday morning William Maple, manager of the Fountain Inn had his boys pick up every bit of wastepaper that they could find but by noon it was as bad as ever he said. It is the belief of Mr. Maple and of Pa Newc that something should be done about those who persist in throwing wastepaper on the streets. Mostly it is not small sheets but large sections of Sunday papers that cause the trouble.

A few months ago every neck would crane when an airplane flew over the ity. Now-a-days it is a common occurrence and the drone of the motor does not arouse even the most curious. Pa Newc believes that even if a squadron would fly over the city no one would look up.

Although it seems anything like June yet the month is destined sadly to deplete the ranks of Freemans association. Already two of the more free souls are scheduled to step off and join the benedicts. Of the original dozen or so only a few Freemen remain.

More staid citizens do not keep up with the trend of the times in the way that their younger contemporaries do. It was only a short time ago at

Formal Ceremony Occurs Saturday At New Hospital

Grandson Of Donor Of Hospital Takes Part In Laying Stone

ADDRESS IS MADE BY DR. CRAWFORD

Guests At Ceremony Conclude Program With Dinner At Field Club

In the presence of a group of interested spectators, the formal ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the magnificent new Jameson Memorial hospital on Garfield and Leasure avenues, this city, a gift to the city from the late David Jameson, took place on Saturday at noon. The ceremony was a most impressive one. Following the placing of the stone in the corner of the institution spectators went to the New Castle Field Club as guests of Mrs. Jameson at dinner, the program of the day concluding with a pledge on the part of all of their loyalty and support for the new hospital through the years to come.

Cornerstone Ready.

The cornerstone was already suspended over the place where it was to be laid, the southeast corner of the front porch, when the ceremonies were started. Hon. George T. Weingartner,, president of the board of directors, in a brief address opened the program and presented Dr. W. H. Crawford, president emeritus of Allegheny college, who made the cornerstone laying address.

As Dr. Crawford completed his address, Mr. Weingartner said that the cornerstone box had been sealed in the stone, and that they were ready to proceed with the placing of the stone. He read a list of the things that the stone contained. J. P. Finan, masonry superintendent at the construction of the hospital, was in actual charge of lowering the stone.

Grandson Takes Part.

As the stone was about to be lowered, David Jameson McCreery, grandson of the donor of the hospital, using Masonic emblems, the same that

Pioneer Farmer Is Found Dead In Barn On His Farm

J. H. Russell Of Little Beaver Township Dies Suddenly On Saturday Afternoon

J. H. Russell, well known farmer and pioneer resident of Little Beaver township was found dead in a barn at his home near Enon Valley Saturday. Mr. Russell, who was 72 years old, appeared to be in his usual health on Saturday. None of the members of the family had heard him complain, and he had eaten a hearty dinner. Soon after he went out to the barn to look after some cows. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon a member of the family went to the farm and found Mr. Russell lying dead in a stall of the cow barn. Coroner J. P. Caldwell gave a certificate of death from heart trouble.

Mr. Russell was born on the farm where he died. His parents were pioneer residents of that section. He had always taken an active interest in the affairs of the neighborhood. He had served as school director in Little Beaver township, and at the time of his death he was secretary of the local telephone company. He was a man of high Christian character, being an elder in the Enon Presbyterian church.

Mr. Russell married Miss Carrie Phillips, whose home was near Coraopolis, who survives, also three children, William Dale Russell, Margaret Russell Boggs and Aileen Phillips Russell, all of Enon or vicinity.

Brothers and sisters surviving are, George Russell and Benjamin Russell, of near Enon; Mrs. Elizabeth Pattison of Ellwood City, Mrs. Pauline Young, near Enon and Mrs. Alice M. Stoll, of Warren, O.

Funeral services at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon, Eastern Standard Time, from the family residence. Interment in Little Beaver cemetery.

Reeves Plans To Pave Walnut Street

When city councilmen convened in formal meeting at council chambers, city hall, today Clayton Reeves, head of the department of public improvements received colleagues sanction to authorize Solicitor White to prepare a bill providing for the paving of Walnut street between County Line and East Washington street, one block and one-half in distance.

The ordinance will probably be a force ordinance and if city finances do not permit the work may not be done this year.

Graduates Hear Able Address On Sunday Evening

Baccalaureate Sermon Is Preached By Rev. George M. Landis

NEARLY 3,000 ATTEND CATHEDRAL SERVICE

More Than 300 In June Graduating Class Taking Part In Service

REV. G. M. LANDIS

In the proximity of 2,700 persons assembled in the spacious auditorium of the Scottish Rite cathedral Sunday evening to witness the baccalaureate services of the June graduating class of the New Castle Senior High school, at which the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, delivered a most inspiring address to the graduates-to-be. The service marked the opening of commencement week for the local school.

Both the main floor, with the exception of the space reserved for the seniors, and the first and a part of the second balcony were crowded as the orchestra commenced the processional march, and when the last member of the class reached his seat an even larger assemblage had gathered in the vast hall.

Over 300 In Class

The processional march opened at 8:05 p. m., with Prof. Frank L. Orth, principal of the school, leading. Following came the class president, Louis Hazen, and to the rear of him were the members of the class, numbering over 300. Attired in cap and gown,

Woman Flier On Second Leg Of Atlantic Flight

Miss Amelia Earhart On Plane Hopping Off From Halifax This Morning

NEW FOUNDLAND IMMEDIATE GOAL

Woman Expects To Be First To Make Flight Across Ocean

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
TREPASSEY BAY, Newfoundland, June 4—Monoplane "Friendship" arrives here 2:28 o'clock local time.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 4.—The trans-Atlantic Plane Friendship, carrying Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, hopped off at 9:30 this morning, Daylight time, for Trepassey, Newfoundland, on the second leg of its trip to Europe. Weather conditions were perfect.

Weather Conditions Better

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 4—Weather conditions at Trepassey Island, next stop on the proposed trans-Atlantic flight of Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, were reported as perfect today. There was a gentle wind from the northwest, the sky was clear and there was no sign of fog. All was in readiness for a landing.

Just Like Amelia

KANSAS CITY, June 4.—"Well, now, that's just like Amelia."

This was the comment today of A. M. Earhart, uncle of the latest American girl to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight, who lives here.

"She always was a spunky little thing," said Earhart.

England Is Goal

HALIFAX, N. S., June 4—With England as her ultimate destination, the huge tri-motored monoplane Friendship, piloted by Wilmer Stultz, and carrying Miss Amelia Earhart, a well-known aviatrix and social worker of Boston as co-pilot, and Lou "Slim" Gordon as mechanic, was ready early today to take off from here today for Trepassey, N. F.

Equipped with pontoons, the plane swooped down through the cloud banks, made a perfect landing in the harbor and moored near the Halifax naval air station here yesterday after an uneventful journey from Boston.

A few minutes later the plane took off for Trepassey, but the heavy fog prompted Stultz to return here about 30 minutes later.

Miss Earhart hopes to be the first woman flier to successfully cross the Man Wanted For Shooting Friend To Stand Trial

Francisco Elisco, Charged With Murder Of Antonio Di Rauso, Gives Self Up

SHOOTING OCCURRED IN NOVEMBER, 1927

To Plead Self-Defense When Case Comes Up For Trial At Present Court Term

Francisco Elisco, wanted here for the shooting of Antonio Di Rauso during a quarrel on South Jefferson street on the night of November 20th, 1927, returned to New Castle and surrendered to Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds Saturday evening. He was accompanied by Attorney Thomas W. Dickey when he appeared at the county jail and announced that he wished to be locked up.

Shooting of Di Rauso was the culmination of an all night drinking party in which four men had taken part. Along toward morning on November 20th an automobile driven by Elisco in which the men had been riding around during the night stopped in front of 908 South Jefferson street and the four men got out. It is said that they were all more or less under the influence of liquor.

Argument Ensues

They had proceeded a short distance from the machine when Di-Rauso and Elisco became involved in an argument. One of the other men is alleged to have tried to affect a reconciliation, but without results. The men became more belligerant and it is claimed that several blows were struck.

During the trouble it is claimed Elisco drew a revolver and shot Di Rauso, the bullet taking effect in Di Rauso's abdomen. He was rushed to the New Castle hospital, where he died two days later from the effect of his wound.

After the shooting Elisco jumped in his machine and drove away. Authorities were unsuccessful in locating him, but he was indicted for murder at the next meeting of the grand jury in December.

Elisco now claims that the shooting

Plane's Radio Flashes Now And Then, "All Is Well" On Ship

(International News Service)
HONOLULU, T. H., June 4.—The Monoplane Southern Cross was cutting a clear path through the air, keeping to a true course on its 3100-mile hop from Hawaii to Fiji Islands and its crew still maintained high hopes of reaching Suva, it was indicated by a message flashed from the trans-Pacific plane at 2 a. m. (Hawaiian Island time) today.

The message said:

"Position 2 a. m., latitude 3:07 south; longitude 171 west. Approximately over Phoenix group."

The Phoenix Isles, lying about 1868 miles from Honolulu, had been chosen by Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of one flight, as an emergency landing in case of necessity. It is directly in the path of the big plane.

The radio corporation station here picked up a message from the Southern Cross at 3:30 a. m. today (Hawaiian Island time), saying:

"Doing fine. Expecting to sight land soon, but not so clear as expected."

The huge monoplane was believed to be past the Phoenix group of islands at the time the message was

Steamer Battles Ice In Hunt For Missing Italia

Steamer Chartered By Italian Government Reports Reaching Amsterdam Island

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 4.—The steamer Braganza which was chartered by the Italian government to search for the missing dirigible Italia, has radioed that it has reached Amsterdam Island, Spitzbergen, but has found no trace of the airship, a Central News Dispatch from King's Bay stated today.

The message from the Braganza added that it was proceeding northward despite heavy ice-packs.

The Italia's hangar at King's bay is being dismantled and stowed aboard the Citta Di Milano for shipment back to Italy when hope is definitely given up for General Umberto Nobile and his crew of seventeen.

The Italia has not been heard from for more than eleven days. The Norwegian ice-boat Hobby was expected at King's Bay today to aid in the search for the lost airship.

There really should be a brass band turned out, a parade of soldiers, a clatter of bells, for this day in June is an epochal one, a day of happiness it foretells. Its been marked in red for a long long time, with a background of silver, a border of gold, its the day of days for a lad I know, for this is the day that he's five years old. Five years today since he came to town, and a brother has joined this young man since then, and it won't be many five years methinks, till this pair of rascals will both be men. Five years of age, what a dignity, and I'm wondering now just what I can say, to mark this most important event, many happy returns, fifty-six today.

Address Made At Cornerstone Laying Ceremony At Jameson Memorial Hospital At Noon Saturday

Dr. William H. Crawford, President Emeritus, of Allegheny College, Makes Notable Address as Cornerstone of Magnificent New Institution is Placed in Position.

The chief address at the ceremony at noon, Saturday, in connection with laying of the cornerstone of the new Jameson Memorial Hospital, was made by Dr. W. H. Crawford, President Emeritus of Allegheny College. His address follows:

The significance of a gathering depends largely on its purpose. Thousands, or even tens of thousands, may gather in an outdoor auditorium for entertainment only, the place and the gathering soon forgotten, or a few men may make a small room forever historic and sacred by a bold utterance against tryanny and an immortal declaration of independence. It is the purpose which makes the gathering significant and memorable.

It would be difficult to imagine a higher or holier purpose or a more far-reaching and benevolent purpose than the one which brings us together at this hour. We are here to lay the cornerstone of a noble building, a building to be used for human welfare. Here suffering will be relieved, here the sick will be restored to health, here blind eyes will be opened, here deaf ears will be unstopped, here life will be saved. One of the holiest ministries of earth will be performed within the walls which shall be erected here. A hospital such as this is to be is an expression of the very best in our modern civilization. It is significant of real scientific progress and bears witness to genuine altruistic motive.

I am impressed that even in so brief a service as this there are three things at least which ought to be said. The first is that the gift which is to make this hospital possible is a very notable one. Few gifts like it have ever been made in this country. It is notable because of its size, and it is also notable because it is the gift of one man. It is seldom in any community that a single individual is disposed in justice to other interests to set aside so large a sum, even for a most worthy object. Within a few years I have traveled in nearly every state in this Union. In my journeyings I have made it a point to observe public buildings. In all my going about I have not visited any city in any state where a more noteworthy gift to the community has been made by any one citizen. In the city of Montreal there is the largest and best equipped hospital in all Canada. It was built by a generous benefactor, Lord Strathcona, former prime minister of the Dominion. The stately and extensive group of buildings there on the wide sloping hillside above the crowded streets of the city comprise one of the most beautiful and imposing monuments I have ever seen. No one can look upon it without pausing in admiration. What David Jameson, through his notable gift, is doing for New Castle and a large region round about is very much like what Lord Strathcona did for Montreal and that part of Canada within reach, and in proportion to the size of the city, fully as great. You of this community are highly favored and highly privileged that such a monumental thing has been done in your midst. The building and maintaining of this hospital will give added value and prestige to your city. This is an unusual enterprise. A new distinction

Rugh Presides At Rotary Club

President-Elect In Charge Of Sessions Of Day At The Castleton

In the absence of Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the club, Welty O. Rugh, president-elect of the New Castle Rotary club presided over the monthly business meeting of the organization which took place at noon today in the Crystal ball room of The Castleton.

J. Lee Calahan, chairman of the crippled children's committee was first to report, stating that during the last year, 26 operations had been performed under the auspices of the committee, and that in all, 326 had received attention. Since the beginning of the crippled childrens' clinic, Mr. Calahan stated, there have been 2,960 patients.

Robert McKinney reported that he and his committee have been active in visiting members of the club who were ill. For the knockers' committee, composed of past presidents of Rotary, Dr. L. W. Wilson reported, congratulating President Wallace on the fine speech that he made before the Civil war veterans at the last meeting of the club. Dr. W. L. Campbell asked that some attention be paid to the shelf of books which the club has donated to the public library.

Speaking for more good fellowship within the organization, Fred L. Rentz made the next speech. He declared that Rotary was not a business institution, but was social, and that the members should not be too serious.

That the Boy Scout organization in Lawrence county is sadly in need of money, and that a show is planned whereby this money can be raised was reported by DeLace Cole, who said that the Scottish Rite cathedral had been engaged for June 29, on which date a super vaudeville show would be presented.

Ministers Oppose Sunday Operation

Pass Resolution At Meeting Held In This City This Morning

About noon today a delegation of members of Ministerial Association visited the News office, and announced that at the meeting of the Ministerial Association this morning, the following resolution had been acted upon, and it was the desire of the association that it be published.

The resolution is as follows:

"The Ministers of New Castle and of Lawrence County, Pa., wish to call the attention of this Christian community to the fact that an amusement park, within its jurisdiction, owned and controlled by professedly law abiding citizens, is being operated for gain upon the Lord's Day.

"This action is in plain violation of the statutes of the State of Pennsylvania, which protects the Sabbath. This law has been affirmed and reaffirmed by the Supreme Court again and again. Just last year the Philadelphia Athletic Association was restrained from holding American League Base Ball Games in that city on the Lord's Day.

"It is also, and this is far worse, a flagrant violation of the law of God, whose protection and whose favor we implore. As ministers of the Gospel of Christ, as speakers for God, we place the responsibility of this situation directly upon the Christian community, with the warning that such violation of law, human and Divine, cannot but result in moral deterioration and in irretrievable loss to society.

"As preachers of righteousness we do not conceive it to be our duty to gather evidence and to prosecute violators of the law; especially when the community is equipped with courts and officers who are sworn to do that very thing.

"This declaration is not an attempt to side-step responsibility, but it is an attempt to place responsibility where it belongs, it is an attempt to sound forth a warning from the watch-tower of Zion.

"Adopted this 4th day of June 1928.
"H. C. WEAVER, President.
"ROSS M. HAVERFIELD, Acting Secretary."

REPUBLICANS MAY HEAR COOLIDGE'S NAME MENTIONED

Kansas City and got down to the actual work of the convention, the first of which is the settlement of the perennial quarrels among the lily-whites and the black-and-tans of the always Democratic South.

Hilles Active

The "Draft Coolidge Whether or No" reached Kansas City in the person of Charles D. Hilles, the New York National Committeeman, who has been the chief rallying post for the anti-Hoover forces of the East. Like a sentinel pine Hilles has stood out against the gale-like winds that have blown many of the other leaders into the Hoover camp. He may have swayed at times, but he has never fallen.

Who will present the magic name of Coolidge, if it is to be formally presented to the convention; who will lead the fight in the open and behind the scenes, Mr. Hilles did not say. But he apepared quite confident that when the ballotting begins ten days hence there will be a lot of votes to be added in the Coolidge column.

The only way in which this can be prevented, in the opinion of Mr. Hilles, and incidentally some others, will be for the President to flatly put his foot down. Mr. Hilles doesn't pretend to know whether that will be done or not; nor do any of other leaders here pretend to know, and in this latter group are the somewhat apprehensive managers of Herbert Hoover.

Coolidge Prepared

There are reports, persistent enough but not now confirmable, that Mr. Coolidge already has prepared for such a contingency as his name being presented to the convention. There are reports that he has written a letter which has been entrusted to a "spokesman" and which is to be read to the convention when and if his name is presented. Almost everyone in Kansas City has heard of such a letter, but no one has seen it and, in fact no one can be found who has heard of anyone who has seen it.

Friends of Wm. M. Butler, chairman of the National Committee, who naturally would be the President's spokesman in such a matter, deny emphatically that Mr. Butler has any such missive. Others whose names have been linked in the gossip are equally emphatic in their denials. Hence, the conclusion reached by the drafters is that no such letter is in existence, at least, yet. And in that situation they are going ahead with their plans.

Votes Held Out

They can, in fact, do little else but go ahead. To haul down their flag now, at this stage of the proceedings, would be tantamount to admitting the impossibility of "Stopping Hoover." Half the New York delegation of 90 votes, a dozen votes in Illinois, nearly all of Pennsylvania, a whole flock in New England, and a lot in the South are being held outside the Hoover column on the "draft Coolidge" plea. The anti-Hoover leaders can't let go.

In the end, it probably comes down to the diminutive figure of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. The 79 votes that he will control of Pennsylvania likely will prove the bell-wether of the balloting. The question of how Pennsylvania will go on the first ballot has become, for the time being at least, the most interesting and significant question of the convention.

If Pennsylvania goes to Hoover on the first ballot, the chances are that it will be quickly over with the nomination of Hoover assured. The cabinet candidate can count between 450 and 500 votes outside the Keystone State, unless instructions and pledges are violated. Furthermore, Pennsylvania going for Hoover would be accepted as the "tip-off" that Mr. Mellon knew that President Coolidge would not consent to the draft.

Mellon Holds Key

If, on the other hand, Pennsylvania's votes go to Mr. Coolidge it will galvanize the anti-Hoover forces into electric energy. Or should Pennsylvania's votes be held, for example, for Mr. Mellon himself the fact will be interpreted as indicating that the Sphinx-like little man from Pittsburgh is willing to lend the tremendous weight of his influence to the task of stopping his colleague in the cabinet.

Pennsylvania holds the key to the situation as has few other single states in Republican history. For as Pennsylvania goes quite probably goes the convention.

The most seriously injured were Catherine Zuk, who was enroute to Mount Carmel, having recently landed at New York from Europe, and William Weisse, of Hazleton, a trainman. Both were in the Fountain Springs hospital, near Ashland, and physicians said there was little hope for their recovery.

The accident occurred in the East Morris Ridge Cut, near here, early yesterday, and although officials made a preliminary investigation yesterday, they said they were unable to determine the cause. Three of the four coaches were derailed while a Pullman remained on the tracks.

HONOLULU, T. H., June 4.—On to Suva.

Apparently confident of success, the Southern Cross, was today on the last 1,000 miles of its 3,100 mile hop across the South Pacific from the Hawaiian Islands to the Fiji group.

Had the plane faltered or the fuel supply run short, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith commander of the aerial adventure, had planned to make an emergency landing on the Phoenix group, a few tiny specks, representing the only land on the path of the airmen on their long journey.

The islands were reached and passed, however, early today indicating the four men on board the big tri-motored monoplane were certain of their ability to carry on to Suva.

The plane was 24 hours out from Kauai at 5:20 a. m., Island time and at its present rate of speed should reach Suva sometime between 3:30 p. m. Island time and 6 p. m., tonight.

Over Phoenix Islands

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, June 4.—The trans-Pacific plane Southern Cross was over the Phoenix Islands on its hop fram Kauai, Hawaii, to Suva, Fiji Islands, at 1:34 p. m. (Greenwich Mean time) or 8:34 a. m., (New York Daylight Saving time), said a radiogram from C. E. Kingsford-Smith, co-pilot of the machine, today.

Phoenix Islands lie just south of the equator approximately 1,800 statute miles from Kauai.

A radiogram from the Southern Cross at 3:10 p. m. (G. M. T.) said that the plane was doing well but that "the weather was not so clear as we would like to have it."

Flight Progresses

HONOLULU, June 4.—Four men in an airplane early today were fighting tropical storms a mile and a half above the ocean in a daring attempt to be the first to span the treacherous reaches of the South Pacific.

They are the gallant crew of the tri-motored Fokker plane, Southern Cross; Capt. C. E. Kingsford-Smith, C. T. P. Ulm, Harry W. Lyon and James Warner, who reached here Friday after a non-stop flight from the mainland of California.

With barely two days rest, the intrepid airmen yesterday morning climbed aboard their ship at Barking Sands field, on the neighboring island of Kauai, and calmly set out on the longest over-water flight ever attempted.

Their destination is Suva, Fiji islands, a little dot in the Southern Pacific, 3170 miles from Honolulu. As on the 2400-mile hop from California to Hawaii, the unfailing radio told the progress of the hazardous venture.

These messages told of storms and the struggle to rise above them with a missing motor as calmly as a man would say "good morning".

At 1 o'clock this morning, Pacific time, the huge monoplane was in clear view of the constellation "Southern Cross" for which it was named.

The equator had been crossed, and the plane continued roaring on its way at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Seventeen hundred miles of the dangerous hop from Kauai Island to Suva had been covered, and 1400 miles stretched ahead.

Throughout the early hours of this morning, the plane's radio continued to flash back the cheery message "all's well!" A few hours before the fliers had fought and conquered a terrific tropical storm.

Taking off from Barking Sands at 5:20 Sunday morning, the huge plane circled the field once and then started a bee line for Suva. For one-third of the distance over its far-flung course, the plane repeatedly flashed its cheery "all well".

The radio told of eating away space at the rate of 100 miles per hour, the weather was reported fair and everything apparently was fine. Then suddenly came this sickening message:

"One motor sounds bad. Have dropped to 60 miles an hour."

At that hour the plane was 1,000 miles out from Honolulu and 700 miles from the nearest land—the tiny Phoenix group of islands.

For twenty minutes a watching world waited in anxiety. Then finally came this message:

"Motors not so steady, but no danger. Speed at present 80 knots."

Twenty-five agonizing minutes later came this:

"Have encountered many small rain storms and recently the starboard motor was sputtering. All ok now. Regards to all."

Deaths Of The Day

Deonise Turcu

Deonise Turcu, aged 12 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Achim Turcu, died at the residence in Hickory township Saturday night at 11 o'clock following an illness of heart trouble.

The lad was a pupil of the East Brook school and was a special favorite among his schoolmates. Besides his parents he leaves three brothers and one sister.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the home. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Miss Marie Forest

Word has been received by relatives in New Castle of the death of Miss Marie Forest, formerly of Haus avenue, this city, which occurred at Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday, June 2, after a prolonged illness.

Miss Forest went to Arizona about three years ago for the benefit of her health. Everything possible was done for her restoration, but her condition gradually grew weaker until she passed away.

For a number of years she was a music instructor in this city. She was an active member of the Second United Presbyterian church and a faithful worker in the Bible school.

She leaves her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Forest, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Frew, both of Phoenix. Funeral services took place this afternoon from the family home in Phoenix. Burial was made in the cemetery at that city.

Mrs. Hulda McCracken.

Mrs. Hulda McCracken, aged 86 years, widow of Jacob McCracken, died Monday morning at 6 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Walton of Scott township after an illness of six months due to complications.

Mrs. McCracken was born in Scott township February 17, 1841, a daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Simington Shaffer, pioneer residents of Lawrence county. She was a member of the Hermon Presbyterian church.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Walton at whose home she died she leaves three sons, George of Edenburg and Lee and Harry of Worth township, Butler county. Mrs. McCracken also leaves six sisters, Mrs. William Hunter and Mrs. Laura Johnson of New Castle, Mrs. Rachel Moore of Prospect, Mrs. Marie Kennedy of Pomona, Cal., Mrs. Theodore Gardner of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Eva Stauffer of Oregon, Ill.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday, June 6 at 2 p. m., eastern standard time from Mrs. Walton's home in charge of Rev. J. I. Gregory of the Hermon church. Burial will be made in the Harlansburg cemetery.

Mrs. Robert A. Nelson.

Mrs. Margaret Wilkin Nelson, aged 29, wife of Robert A. Nelson of Volant, died at the Shenango Valley hospital Sunday, June 3, 1928, at 12:45 a. m. after an illness of seven weeks due to a complication of diseases. Mrs. Nelson was born in Volant, April 14, 1899, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Wilkin, and had been a lifelong resident of that place. She had been married three years, her maiden name being Margaret Eleanor Wilkin. She was a member of the Volant M. E. church. She leaves her husband, Robert A. Nelson; an infant son, Donald Wilkin Nelson, aged 7 weeks; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Wilkin of Volant; three sisters, Florence Wilkin of Volant, Mrs. George W. Brown, Youngstown, O., and Mrs. R. E. Whittaker, Cleveland, O., and one brother, Warren J. Wilkin of Volant.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, June 5, 1928, at 2 p. m. eastern standard time, from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Wilkin of Volant, with Rev. A. I. Dickenson and Rev. L. W. Miller in charge. Interment will be made in Plaingrove cemetery.

Marjorie Campbell.

Miss Marjorie Campbell, aged 21 years, of North Beaver township, died in the Cresson sanatorium Saturday evening after an extended illness.

The young woman was the daughter of the late Harvey Campbell and Mrs. Ellen Campbell who survives her. She was a member of the Moravia Presbyterian church and was one of the best known and highly esteemed young women in the community where she lived.

Besides her mother of North Beaver township, she leaves one brother, Ralph of Colorado Springs.

Funeral services will take place Tuesday, June 5 at 2 p. m. eastern standard time from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Fullerton of the Mt. Jackson-Enon Valley road. Burial will be made in the Union cemetery at New Gallilee.

Mrs. Williams' Funeral.

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Margaret J. Williams, wife of D. S. Williams, 402 East Lincoln avenue, were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the late residence with Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church in charge. The choir of the First Baptist church rendered selections during the service. The pallbearers were C. L. Fombell, J. Q. L. Roberts, Daniel Kennedy, Roy Hughes, R. C. Fralick and John Owens. Interment was made in Oak Park cemetery.

Chicago Officer Slain By Bandits, Bystander Injured

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 4.—Policeman William O'Connor was shot and killed, another man was shot and may die in a series of holdups today by a gang believed by police to be bootleggers.

Within eight hours of the shooting of O'Connor police arrested Samuel Roti, 23, as a suspect, when he was found near the scene of the crime with a loaded revolver in his possession.

Policeman O'Connor died in a desperate battle with gunmen after he had surprised them in the act of robbing a soft drink parlor.

Four men entered a restaurant, lined patrons against the wall, and shot Samuel Paich, 30, when he resisted. At a hospital it was said Paich may die.

WOLHETER-MONTGOMERY WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

A pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the parsonage of the First M. E. church, when June E. Wolheter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolheter, Warren avenue, became the bride of Chester E. Montgomery, son of Mrs. Alice Montgomery, Bell avenue. The ceremony was solemnized in the living room, with Dr. H. C. Weaver officiating with the ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin, old lace and moire, with matching accessories, and carried a bridal bouquet of calla lilies and Canterbury bells.

Miss Ruth Mariacher, as maid of honor wore a gown of peach taffeta and orchid georgette, with bouffant skirt, and carried an arm bouquet of sunburst roses. Robert Clarke, served as best man.

Other guests were Paul and Clare Montgomery, brothers of the groom, Miss Margaret Lennig and Ned Chapman.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the bride's home, carried out in tones of pink and white. Covers were arranged for the bridal party, and the immediate family.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery left later for Akron, O., where they will make their home. The groom is employed with the Goodrich Rubber Company.

CHILDREN'S PARTY ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Over 60 children were delightfully entertained at "The Elms" on the Harlansburg road, Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Edward G. Schultz, who recently moved here from Washington, D. C., entertained at a May party.

An improvised throne of flowers was erected on the lawn and the children each carried a May basket decorated and filled with flowers, and wore crepe paper hats to carry out the color scheme.

Master Gerald Ward and little Miss Wilda Stewart as "king" and "queen", wore their golden crowns, and presided at the ceremonial. Samuel and Betty Robison were train bearers for the queen and the pages were America Burnsides and Ethel Munnell.

Directly before the throne was a large Maypole where the Maypole dance was given by Alice Bradford, Ethel and Louise Munnell, Eleanor and America Burnsides, Lenore Fulkerson, Ruth Newman, Roberta Spear, Louetta Nicholson, Freda Campbell, Edna Raney and Dorothy McConnell.

Mrs. H. H. Rosenthal took moving pictures of the affair and Edward Schultz in the airplane "Spirit of New Castle" dropped confetti over the children.

A ukelele duet was played by Louise Munnell and Eleanor Burnsides, a song was rendered by America Burnsides, a recitation by Loretta Moore, a dance by Katherine Smith and Dorothy Rodgers and several readings were given by Mrs. E. G. Schultz.

Judges for the best May basket were Mrs. Jane Pattison, Mrs. H. H. Rosenthal and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Porter. Prizes were awarded Katherine Smith and Betty Robison for the best and the prizes for the best baskets decorated by the children themselves were won by Eleanor Burnsides and Camella Smith.

Later in the afternoon the children were served refreshments on the lawn.

O. J. C. Club

Members of the O. J. C. Club met Friday evening with Mrs. James Jones, Katherine street. Music and games were pastimes, and the prize was won by Mrs. Roy Davis.

That happy, old tradition of an ELGIN watch for Graduation

Somehow an Elgin Watch on a fellow's graduation from prep school or college has come to be a tradition . . . just like the right to vote when a fellow's twenty-one. Boys get to expect it. Of course, they have other watches . . . but the ELGIN that a boy looks forward to when he graduates is another kind of watch . . . not just a minute marker . . . but a finer watch, a lifetime watch, a mark of having arrived at man's estate.
And through generations of choice by fathers and sons on this day of days, ELGIN has come to be the traditional watch for graduation gifts. To its unfailing accuracy and lifetime dependability, ELGIN has added a new modernity of style and beauty that makes it more than ever a welcome and cherished gift. See our displays.

LOWER AIR MAIL RATES

NO LITTLE importance is attached to Postmaster General New's order cutting the new rate for air mail to 5 cents an ounce after August 1. Aviation and all users of the mails welcome the news.

The lower rate is made possible by development of the air mail service to a point where it is relatively cheap and surprisingly reliable. Planes can deliver mail in much less time than railroad delivery requires and after August 1 the cost of the faster service will be but little more than that of the slower rail mail. Moreover, the danger of delay through accident is about the same.

Low air mail rates will mean a wider use of this service, which in turn will bring about the opening of new air mail lines and the further development of existing routes. The service will be provided wherever the demand is sensed. The only thing that has retarded the development of the air mails was the high cost.

Aviation will profit from the 5-cent rate, for everything that places more planes in operation and makes the public air conscious helps the industry. The public must be taught to use aviation just as it had to be taught to use the railroad and the automobile.

Postmaster General New has unlocked the door to an air mail system reaching into every state, and serving every community either directly or through the auxiliary railway mail service.

COOLIDGE GOES TO WISCONSIN

AGAIN the Middle West lures the man in the white house. No sooner had congress gone into its summer recess than President Coolidge announced his own vacation plans, chief among which is the selection of a fishing lodge on the Brule River in Wisconsin for his summer "white house."

Wherever a president goes politicians and the public seek a political reason for his going. The question is more difficult to answer this year because of Mr. Coolidge's apparent grim determination to get out of national politics.

It seems a little absurd to connect his proposed Wisconsin visit with his veto of the McNary-Haugen bill and his choice of camps has no relation to the national conventions because both will probably be concluded soon after he leaves Washington.

There are several possible explanations that sound far more plausible and reasonable. There is good fishing in the Brule River, and the president is an enthusiastic convert to the contemplative man's recreation. It is not unlikely that he is seeking another vacation like those in the Black Hills and in the Adirondacks.

Cedar Island Lodge has another attraction for a man of the temperament of Mr. Coolidge. It is far enough from civilization to give him quiet and solitude, yet near enough to keep him in constant touch with affairs of state, with which he is as deeply concerned as he is desirous of unburdening himself of them.

The American people are in for another summer of fish stories by, for and of the president.

SEEKERS OF THRILLS

THOUSANDS of thoroughly domesticated Americans have implored Commander Byrd to admit them to membership in his proposed expedition of exploration to the south pole. This mass hunger for adventure is either a protest against modern home life or a testimonial to longings usually hidden from public view.

These would-be explorers and adventurers are not lured by the hope of fame and fortune. Most of the fame will go to the head of the expedition, and the chance of winning a fortune is as slim as that of finding a diamond-studded iceberg. Conquistador, colonist, explorer and pirate had in general one hope in common. They dreamed of wealth—much or little, legal or illegal—but still wealth. The new seekers for strangeness have no such thought.

Perhaps historians of a few centuries hence will be profoundly impressed by the present evidence of potential energy and love of adventure in the American people. Such was their vital force, will read the future verdict, that thousands of them aspired to go somewhere, the farther the better, and for no reason other than that they were driven from within.

Polar regions lure many men and women because of the promise of new experience, of a gamble with death, of a new and strange life and an escape from the monotonous sameness of life in civilization. This enthusiasm for the south pole is not a new phenomenon in mundane existence.

All the world is a stage. Act now.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:26. Sun rises tomorrow 4:30.

A well known former prohibition enforcement officer who has been in Paris has come back to this country and says he has a sure cure for drunkenness. He says that in Kosice, Czecho-Slovakia, a town of about 75,000 inhabitants, when a man gets drunk the mayor has him put in a black box which resembles a coffin on wheels. The town criers then haul the box through the streets for all the world to see. Oh, wham de doodle wham.

When airplanes get as thick as automobiles are now no doubt there will be a lot of roofs busted in and trees torn out by the roots by reckless airship drivers. Everybody will have to be their own policemen when that time comes as there are not half enough police to police the auto law violators now.

FROM THE OLD COUNTRY.

Samuel G. Lindenstein for 20 years New York representative of The News in the advertising field is now touring Europe. He is well known to many New Castle people. He writes the Hints and Dints man as follows:

Hotel Schweizerhof, Lucerne

Dear Fred:

He has seen the Lions of St. Peters, the Lions of St. Marks and the Lions of Lucerne, and that ain't lyin' either.

The Germans have their heads shaved to save having their hair cut more than twice a year, so they can pay the reparations and drink more beer.

Some day they will get a street cleaning device in Venice, Italy to clean the canals of banana skins, orange peels and other things.

Sakespeare said "There is something rotten in Demark," maybe, but there sure is something rotten in Naples by the odors which assail your olefactory nerves when out for a stroll.

In Prague they make the coffee so strong they serve it like broken candy.

When out for a stroll in Vienna you hear a hissing sound like the surf breaking on the beach; upon examination you find it is the men in the coffee saloons swishing coffee between the interstices of their teeth.

In Nuremberg they still make Lebkuchen and everybody has their index finger all stained from drinking it in their coffee and it aint polite to drink beyond the first knuckle.

Speaking of Knuckles the pickled pigs knuckles and sauerkraut you get in Munich are a delight to the eye and death to the digestive organs.

Cologne as a sweet city—where they manufacture toilet water.

In France they sure waste a lot of water which California could use, trying to make coffee—no wonder they drink wine.

The more you see of Europe the better you like America, even if we do have prohibition; for drinking is sure the curse of mankind. In America every man acts like a gentleman, in Europe they don't know the definition of the word.

S. GOLFO LINDY.

Any automobile driver who races through a school zone ought to have his license taken from him and there are a few hundred of that kind in this vicinity. A fifty dollar fine generally cures all who hear about such a penalty.

The members of the house of representatives of Massachusetts are to be investigated for holding a "party" in the state house. A large quantity of confiscated likker was diverted to the use of the legislators and others. Likker around the average legislator has a mighty poor chance to survive in any state—Pa. not excepted.

Potatoes are higher. Who wants potatoes anyhow? They make you fat.

Franklin D. Roosevelt has been chosen by Gov. Al Smith to place his name in nomination at the Democratic convention at Houston, Texas. This Roosevelt chap is a real Democrat and was never known to waver when it came to being a supporter of the Dem party. He was assistant secretary of the navy under President Wilson and quite a few men in New Castle met him when a delegation went to Washington to try for the war munition plant the government was going to build. This Roosevelt would make a good president himself.

"Every time you breathe" excitedly announced an advocate of birth control in the course of an argument we were having on the subject, "every time you breathe a baby is born" and we made up our mind right there he couldn't frighten us. We will continue to breathe, let the chips fall where they may.

A genuine dry is a grocer who refuses to sell five hundred pounds of sugar to a man who looks poor.

President Coolidge is a brave man. He is going to spend his vacation in Wisconsin where a flock of agitators sail under the Republican banner and who could not get into this country now under our immigration laws. Some of this kind are in the U. S. senate and in congress from that state. Maybe the president's presence will cool them off a bit.

Mr. Man: Just the other day two fair young things were seated beside me at a drug store soda fountain at lunch time. Sez one:

"What are you going to have for dee—sert?"

"Oh, choc'late cake, per usual."

"You sure are fond if it, hain't you?" says the first flapperette.

"I sure am" sez the second one. "It's the fondest thing I am of."

Now, I am asking you Hints and Dints, what would you say that was the height of?

FRIEND O' YOURN.'

We believe it is fairly safe to estimate that fully 85 percent of the happy families eat breakfast in the kitchen.

A lady called us up a few days ago and was surprised that we did not know her when she told us her name. When we asked her why we should remember her she said, "Why of all things, you married me to my husband five years ago when you were mayor." And now we cannot imagine why we forgot her either. We performed the ceremony for a half dozen or more couples but this is the first one we have ever heard from. We hope they are all doing well. We didn't charge them anything anyhow.

The falling of an airplane or balloon itself does not seem to be the real danger but keeping from being crushed by the falling airship seems to be the real danger. Those who stand on the ground seem to run about the same risk according to that.

There is a place for everything except a husband whose wife is fixing for a party.

A fisherman at Stroudsburg, Pa., is reported as having gone asleep and fallen into the water and drowned. Fishing is such a quiet peaceful occupation that most any one would go to sleep while working at it. There seems to be danger in most anything a human engages in.

When the men, women and children of Ashland, Wisconsin, heard that President Coolidge was going to spend his vacation in that place this summer they all gave three cheers. Well, that's better than giving nothing like some do.

There is no place where we want to go to in such a hurry that a train or automobile is too slow for us. Those who want to fly can do so for all us.

It has been about 39 years since the Johnstown flood. Time flies but memory lingers.

We did not know it, but there was a rose out in full bloom in our garden on May 30th this year. It was an early rose.

We noticed a sign on the bumper of a Lincoln in front of The News office the other day as follows: "Lizzie's Poppa."

"There are three reasons why I am behind the counter every day instead of taking a nice vacation," a groceryman told us yesterday, "one wife and two children."

One does not have to dance when going to a dance to get a lot of fun out of the evening. All one has to do is to just sit and watch others dance.

If you find any of our remarks contradictory, just remember that it's awfully hard for a fellow to remember exactly what he wrote a year or so ago.

Candy, says a dietitian with a new idea is not fattening. No, nor is anything else for some people; for others I ay would be fattening. Personally we can defy any dietetic dictum and still retain our sevelte beauty of outline and pulchritudious charm of figure. It all depends upon the person. What's one man's meat is another man's poison and there you are.

It is said that spots on clothes will attract moths. If that is true some vests and neckties would be covered with moths.

Usually the best represented animal at a dog show is the "Gin Hound."

Have you ever seen the flag of the City of New Castle? Neither have we. Have you ever seen the State Flag of Pennsylvania. We may have, but we do not remember what it looks like.

The reason why many an old married woman always gets a birthday present is because she goes out and buys it and has it charged to him.

Some birds buy a stand of flags and fasten them to the radiator cap of their automobiles on Memorial Day and then leave them there until they are so dirty they rot and fall off. Some may be able to stand it until the Fourth of July. That is one heluva way of treating the flag of our country.

We saw an item in the fashion notes saying that sleeveless dresses will continue to be the HEIGHT of fashion. If that is so, what will be the DEPTH of fashion in bare legs. We can't help it.

It all depends upon how long some birds belong to an organization as to how much dues they owe. They generally owe all they can owe.

Again we hear a lot of expressions about having something done about celebrating Memorial Day on a Sunday. It seems to us that will be the only solution for elimination of the rough stuff pulled off on that sacred day. If it is held on Sunday most of the noisy babies will have to at least keep quiet while those who appreciate the sacrifices made by soldiers are allowed to pay their respects without annoyance.

Just because a man says he "welcomes criticism" don't go too far with the criticism. Don't rub it in.

We are now having daylight saving time. Have you noticed any difference. Neither have we. People who do not work never do.

Who remembers when the "dumbbell" was called a greenhorn.

Do not let things that are none of your business or which cost you nothing bother you. Your own affairs need your attention worse.

A Useful Root.
Magic $250.
Far Off China.
Uneven Prosperity.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1923, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

George Bernard Shaw, becoming less important and less accurate after 70, declares that accumulated money is the root of all evil.

Without accumulated money Niagara Falls wouldn't be harnessed, the Panama Canal, which helps Britain as much as it does us, wouldn't be dug; automobile production wouldn't be on a quantity basis and this country would have, perhaps 240,000 expensive automobiles, instead of 24,000,000 inexpensive automobiles.

Great accumulation of capital, like great accumulations of water going down hill, represent power.

Eliminate accumulated capital, and you would eliminate possibilities of higher civilization.

If the people haven't brains enough to watch and control accumulated capital they wouldn't have enough to control small capital.

There is magic in the five words, "two hundred and fifty dollars." A college professor hired to deliver lectures praising the power companies testifies that he got $250 for each lecture.

And a lawyer of the earnest Ku Klux Klan hears that a distinguished United States Senator got $250 for each lecture attacking individuals distasteful to the Klan.

How little the average man knows or cares about far off China.

Tuan Chi-Lui is nearing Peking. Did you ever hear of him?

Marshal Chang Tso-Lin gives up hope before the advancing Japanese and other complications and prepares to abandon Pekin, once China's mighty capital.

Is Chang Tso-Lin a definite person in your mind?

In May various corporations declared dividends amounting to $347,900,405. And June's dividends will total $500,000,000. The country is prosperous. The task of intelligent men is to divide the prosperity more evenly.

Mr. Durant, who once owned control of General Motors, but doesn't own it now, returns from Europe, saying: "The biggest bull market ever seen will develop in two or three months. The big boom is yet to come."

Mr. Durant thinks brokers' loans will amount to ten billions and expects to see "ten-million-share days."

That may all be true, and none of it may be true. The wise man keeps out of gambling.

More important, and GENUINE news, is the fact that Henry Ford's army of employes last week numbered 115,431, highest total in his record. The total employment by all Detroit automobile makers was 259,073. That is REAL prosperity.

A distinguished Chicago citizen, sometimes called "Scarface Al" Capone, well acquainted with the beer running business, has been retained by a respectable business firm. The firm says, "We are tired of being blown up at the request of rival firms and think Mr. Capone can stop that for us."

Sound judgment. They have not been blown up since they took Mr. Capone into partnership.

The same thing happend nearly 500 years ago. On the left as you enter the Art Museum in Chicago, stands the original Capone, Bartolommea Coleoni, great gangster of his day, politely called "general." He gave his services to Venice and Milan, fought for and betrayed both cities and died generalissimo of the Venetian state, just before Columbus started to discover the United States.

Chicago citizens should see that statue of Coleoni, of which the original is in Venice. It is the greatest equestrian statue in the world. Capone ought to have a reproduction in his little home.

Just Folks

CHANCE

The wheel of chance stops here and there
And fortunes rise and fall,
And one becomes a millionaire,
Another loses all.

But still the man to whom has come
Wealth's shining golden tide
Remains unchanged within, though some
May flatter or deride.

For luck, which may a fortune give
Or fortune take away,
Still leaves us here our lives to live
And shape from day to day.

It has no power our minds to reach,
It cannot make us kind.
The wheel of fortune cannot teach
Ways gentle and refined.

Chance makes men rich from year to year
And has since life began,
But more than luck is needed here
To make a gentleman.

In a neat little brochure just off the press complete instructions in the art, or is it science of back-seat driving are contained in the concise if somewhat premptory order, 'Shut Up.' But unfortunately few men are in a position to give the advice the full benefit of their own moral support.

VOTING BY MAIL

Now that politics are beginning to show signs of life it might be a good plan once more to inject into the public consciousness a few thoughts about voting by mail.

We are in the midst of a welter of political parties and all most of us have to do is to get out and do what one of these parties say for us to do. In any case we have no choice.

Newspapers and orators are fond of lambasting the American public because they do not vote. It might be more to the point if they gave them a chance to vote or made it to their interest and convenience to vote.

The present party system is certainly a failure when it comes to getting out the vote.

The statement is made that 64 per cent of the people entitled to a franchise decline to exercise it. Only 36 per cent of the people support the two parties.

Why cannot this 64 per cent get together?

It is simple and practical to adopt a voting system whereby a ballot is mailed to every citizen of the country to be marked by him in the quiet and propitious surroundings of his own home and mailed and returned to the proper official.

This system would absolutely get out 90 per cent of the voters.

By this system it could be found out inside of thirty days whether this country wants prohibition or not, whether it wants a high protective tariff or not and whether it wants a war or not. It is well known that advocates both pro and con on these questions are going up and down the country asserting that the people favor their side. There is no system at present of finding out what side the people favor.

George Washington warned us against the party spirit, for among his last words were, "To avoid party spirit, the worst enemy of government, which in different ages and countries has perpetrated the most horrid enormities, is itself a frightful despotism."

While seated with our families around our own firesides, if we voted by mail and stopped the antiquated custom of voting in a booth, every one of us could help nominate and elect our officials.

If we are going to have a democracy let us have one and make it one where the people can easily give expression to their opinion. Why cannot the science of politics keep pace with the other sciences and why cannot our excellent postal system be employed to register the will of the people quickly and accurately instead of harking back to a system that might have been all right in Adam's or Jefferson's day, but is certainly out of date in ours?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE OUTSTANDING THREE.

Governor Alfred E. Smith is the popular choice of the Democrats for presidential nominee. President Coolidge undoubtedly is the popular choice of the Republicans, and following him seems to come Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Smith, Coolidge and Hoover have at least one thing in common: Smith has been the executive of the largest State in the Union. Coolidge has been the executive of the Nation. Hoover's executive and organizing ability has carried him to National and World prominence. Coolidge, Hoover and Smith are the doers in government as distinguished from the talkers, the theorists and the grandstanders. And the people prefer them.

The California primary was a particularly clean cut example. Smith was opposed by Senator Reed of Missouri, probably the most gifted orator in public life, and Senator Walsh of Montana, who created the issue of corruption on which Democrats are trying to win an election. Smith won easily.

Hoover in Ohio won a majority of the delegates against opposition of the state organization. Opposing a favorite son candidate in Indiana, he skirted victory.

It may be that what we are seeing is only a passing political fancy. Perhaps in another campaign the popular choice again will turn to the political showman or to the self-proclaimed Moses. If it does, a good many people who have faith that common sense will triumph in the long run will be disappointed. At any rate we have in this campaign three outstanding candidates who can use authority.

A good many observers think the coming presidential elections are going a long way to explode the idea that the agricultural sections of the country are nursing a grudge they will make effective against the opponents of the McNary-Haugen Bill. President Coolidge has consistently opposed that measure and it is not disputed that the delegates from the farm belt assembling at Kansas City will be as eager as the East in sponsoring a draft Coolidge movement should it ever get under way. It is the belief of politicians here that the President has greater strength in the farm belt than most of the supporters of the McNary-Haugen idea.

The nomination of Herbert Hoover has been opposed on the argument that he cannot carry the farm states. Political writers who have been in those states find that they would indeed prefer another nominee, but they have not found that Hoover would be in danger of defeat if he were the nominee.

I wrote the following recently to a good Democratic friend in Alabama: "How does Al Smith stand in your locality? Judging from what Senator Heflin has to say, Al will need some help at least in the State of Alabama." I received the following: "In regard to our friend Al Smith, wish to state that Tom Heflin does not express the entire sentiment of the State, although I am frank to say that he is egotistical enough to think that he does. Of course, there are a lot of us Protestant Democrats that are fussing about Al, but when the time comes to vote, you know we have always voted the Democratic ticket and, therefore, I suspect that some of us will go fishing and the rest of us will vote for Al."

That is Democratic Loyalty. If the so-called Republicans of the Nation and Lawrence County had half as much devotion to Party, it would be well.

CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

ECSTASY

There come great moments to all of us. Moments when happiness or joy or admiration so transform and inspire us that we seem to stand outside of ourselves and forget the existence of our bodies and our cares. The Greeks invented this excellent word, ecstasy, as a name for this condition of spiritual exaltation. It means, literally, standing outside. The Greeks perceived that in an ecstasy of joy or happiness or other emotion, we seem to stand outside of ourselves, and the body appears to go about its business without much direction from us. Thus, a person in an ecstasy of love may walk homeward through snow and cold from the home of his beloved and keep on walking long after he has passed his street. He is beside himself. Outside of himself. He is, as we say, "up in the clouds." He pays little attention to what his body is doing, and the body, left without intelligent direction, walks on through the cold night, although it may be very tired. The person in ecstasy will "come to himself" after a while. He will take possession of his body again and send it back on the right road, and so to bed.

Some persons rarely experience ecstasy, while to others this exalted state is a more or less constant means of inspiration and consolation. It is not unusual for writers and studious persons to be ecstatic. The person who meditates in a search for truth is likely to be struck "all in a heap," as we say, by a sudden access of intellectual or spiritual light. He may think and meditate for years, in search of a clue to some important truth, and all of a sudden the path becomes clear to him. He may then act in such manner that his neighbors will think him crazy.

Saul, the young lawyer of Tarsus, had been thinking very hard about some cases he was prosecuting. He was on his way to Damascus on professional business, when, we are told, he was suddenly struck almost blind and dumb by the light of spiritual truth. In a religious ecstasy. Saul was beside himself, and presently found his body picking itself up off the highway. The body had fallen off the horse or donkey on which Saul had been riding. Had the poor fellow been driving an automobile at the time he was thus stricken, he probably would have been killed by running the car into the ditch, and humanity would be poorer by some wonderful letters.

On a later occasion, Saul, who had changed his name to Paul, was making a speech before King Agrippa, and one of his old companions interrupted him to say, "Thou are beside thyself! Much learning hath made thee mad!" And that wasn't such a dumb observation as you might think. Paul was beside himself in a fervor of oratory and religious zeal. He was often in a condition of ecstasy, as are some of our most forceful and most misunderstood men of all ages.

America Has "Lady Lindy" Girl Pilot Resembles Lindy

(International News Service)

BOSTON, June 4.—Lady Lindy!

Today America has a heroine of the aulted spaces capable of intriguing he imagination like Colonel Charles . Lindbergh.

Tall, slight, with curly, yellow, bobed hair, Miss Ameria M. Earhart, , who is co-pilot of the London-ound monoplane Friendship, bears markable resemblance to Lindbergh, hose trail she is following.

"She looks more like Lindbergh han Lindbergh himself," declared Brynjulf Standenaes, Norwegian artst, who made life potrait studies of indy and who was in Boston last eek.

"Lady Lindy!"

Miss Earhart was born in Achison, an., and her name is pronounced as hough it were "Airhart". She was raduated from Hyde Park school in hicago and the exclusive Ognontz chool for girls in Philadelphia.

Through 1917 and 1918 she served with the Canadian Red Cross. After the war she studied medicine and sociology at Columbia and a year later registered in the University of Southern California.

Here she took up aviation as a sport. She held the altitude record for women—14,000 feet—many months before any but a handful knew of her daring stab toward the zenith.

Since coming east, Miss Earhart has flown without a single mishap. Her mother lives at Medford, near here. Of late the daughter had divided her time between the settlement district and Dennison airport at Quincy.

She is of slender build and presents an appealing, boyish figure in leather and khaki clothes. Her eyes are serene or zestful according to the circumstances that confront her. She is a good hand with the motors as well as the polish controls in the Friendship's cabin.

orth Atlantic Ocean in a non-stop ight. She will relieve Stultz at the ontrols during their contemplated ight to England. She is a capable ilot, having more than 500 hours of olo flying to her credit.

Secrecy in Plans

The greatest secrecy shrouded the reparations for the flight. The lane, a Fokker, officially recorded as he NX-4204, was purchased from ommander Richard E. Byrd, who riginally intended using it on his orthcoming Antarctic expedition. reparations for the flight had been oing on for weeks, but the announcement of the sale of the plane was not ade until last Friday.

Except that the Friendship is quipped with pontoons it is almost n exact replica of the Southern ross, which is now winging its way ver the Pacific from Hawaii to the iji Islands with four intrepid airmen aboard.

Much interest is centered on the rojected flight because of the fact hat the plane is the first equipped n this side of the ocean with pontoons, which will enable it to make a afe landing on water at any time.

The expedition is backed by the Medical Science Corporation, which wns the plane. George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher and explorer, is acting as the corporation's representative in charge of all details oncerning the flight.

Putnam issued a statement saying hat the Friendship was purchased rom Commander Byrd with a view o scientifically testing by experience ome of the commander's ideas on cean-flying aircraft. Safety, the tatement emphasized, was to be the rime factor in the flight.

Born in Kansas

Miss Earhart was born in Atchison, Kan., in 1898. She is a graduate of the Hyde Park high school at Chicago and of the Ogentz school for irls at Philadelphia. She served in he Canadian Red Cross as a nurse hroughout 1917 and 1918. Later she ent to California, where she took p aviation.

Stultz jumped into the limelight ast year as the pilot for Mrs. Frances Grayson's plane Dawn in its first ake-off. Engine trouble developed n the ill-fated plane when the ship as several hundred miles out at sea. ut Stultz managed to bring it back o Old Orchard Beach, Me., in safety. Later the Dawn was lost, with Mrs. Grayson and two men fliers board.

Gordon hails from San Antonio, ex., where he was born in 1901. He erved in the army air service from 1919 to 1926. For the last two years he has been associated with the Reynolds Airways Corporation as a flight mechanic.

The three motors of the Friendship are of the Wright Whirlwind type and capable of 220 h. p. each. A complete sending and receiving wireless set operating on the 600- meter wavelength is carried by the plane. An additional emergency set is also carried.

Fully loaded, including the weight of its three passengers, the plane weighs a little more than six tons.

Pilot's Wife Surprised

MINEOLA, N. J., June 4.—Mrs. Wilmer Stultz, wife of the pilot of the tri-motored Fokker monoplane, The Friendship, now on the first leg of a trans-oceanic flight attempt, did not know of her husband's contemplated plans until she arrived from Boston at her home here early today, 12 hours after her husband had made a safe landing with the plane at Halifax, N. S. She nearly fainted when she learned the news.

Mrs. Stultz said that she did not believe her husband had started on an ocean flight. She declared that she had been in Boston at the time of the start, but had not seen the take-off. She had been given to understand that her husband was going to Newfoundland with the plane on a test flight for Commander Byrd, she said.

Promise Better Auto Bus Service

Solicitor Robert White and Inspector Henry Dysart voiced the opposition of the city to the Harmony Short Line's application for a renewal of their certificate of public convenience when the Public Service Commission heard the petition at Pittsburgh.

The officials of the Harmony Short Line told the commissioners they would try out a new service if the permit were renewed. This would give hourly service to Ellwood City and service every two hours to Butler. Indications are the permit will be renewed.

Says Konjola Is First Medicine To Relieve Him

Well-Known Local Citizen States This Medicine Banished All His Health Troubles.

MR. LAFAYETTE E. BURLESON
Seavy Photo

Words of praise and appreciation from countless numbers of New Castle residents acknowledge the relief given them from the common ailments through the use of this new Konjola Medicine. Every day new cases come to light in which the benefits are nothing short of miraculous. Indorsements are gladly given by reliable and well-known persons who feel that others suffering as they once did, should be given the means for learning about this advanced medicine, and securing the relief that Konjola bestows on all ailing humanity. The Konjola Man at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, this city, is explaining the merits of Konjola to large crowds every day. Just the other day Mr. Lafayette E. Burleson, well-known local resident, living at 709 Blaine street, made the following statement. Mr. Burleson is employed by the B. R. and P. railroad as a locomotive engineer.

"The way Konjola reached the source of my trouble was surprising", said Mr. Burleson. "I had been taking so many remedies for so long that I didn't think one medicine would ever end my miseries. But now my health has been restored and I owe it all to this new Konjola and I want to indorse this medicine every chance I get.

"For quite some time my entire system had been in a rundown condition. I never knew what caused my stomach to give me so much trouble, but after every meal I suffered dreadfully from indigestion pains. Every bite of food seemed to sour and ferment causing gas to form that pressed against my heart making it pain me very much. I was also subject to heartburn that left me in a state of misery. Due to the weak and disordered condition of my kidneys, I would have severe backaches in the small of my back. Even at night they caused me trouble and I had to rise three and four times. Finally I developed a stubborn case of rheumatism in my arms that was so bad I could hardly do my work. To add to my miseries I contracted lumbago last winter and as the days passed, I steadily got worse. It seemed to me that my case was beyond help because none of the medicine I took ever helped me the least bit.

"I knew that I would have to get relief soon or my troubles would likely develop into a serious state. I began inquiring about Konjola as I had heard that it was highly recommended as a medicine for just such ailments as I was suffering. Soon after I started on the treatment an amazing change came over me and I was greatly surprised. My bowels became regular and moved freely every day. Konjola thoroughly cleansed my inner-system and my stomach organs function as they should. Now it is a fact that no matter what I eat there is not a reoccurance of any one of the former stomach symptoms. My kidneys are strong and never cause me to rise at night. Even the pains in my back are ended so that I can hardly realize I ever suffered from that ailment. But the relief I gained from Konjola did not end there as the rheumatism and lumbago completely vanished and now I enjoy new health. It is a pleasure for me to do my work as I know that every health trouble I ever suffered is a thing of the miserable past. In every way I feel like a different person and I have the utmost confidence in this medicine. I strongly indorse Konjola to others."

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

ACTION HERE AND NOW

Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist, gives another two million dollars to the great fund he is building to help humanity in one way and another. The fund now amounts to more than $20,000,000. There is something unusual about this Rosenwald gift. He has stipulated to the trustees that it is all to be spent within 25 years after his death. He says, "I believe the greatest good can come through the use of the entire sum, both principal and interest, by the present generation."

Mr. Rosenwald is right when he says it is foolhardy to forecast society's needs 100 years from now.

BEAUTIFUL BUILDINGS

Directors of the American Institute of Architects are worrying about the appearance of buildings in America. They say architecture in the United States is suffering from the "humdrums." They think communities look too much alike and public buildings are too greatly standardized. Not many of us will be much impressed with these findings. Ride about town for an hour. If you don't see every conceivable type of house that the mind of man can devise it is because you aren't looking. And other cities are following the lead of New York and erecting for business impressive structures with towers and spires. To the untrained observer it does not seem that American architecture is standardized or humdrum.

FEARING THINGS

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the Nation, makes a speech in which he fears the influence of chain newspapers. It is hard to understand why it is improbable that a man who owns more than one newspaper is not likely to be just as high-minded and just as eager to make his influence count in the right direction as a man who owns the newspaper or no newspapers. Mr. Villard is always fearing something. He is our champion viewer-with-alarm.

HARD TO GO SLOW

Despite the warning of physicians it is hard for the average man to go slow. And the doctors are among the last to take their own advice. Dr. Mendenhall, of the medical school of the University of Indiana, had an engagement in Detroit the other afternoon. He chartered an airplane, left Indianapolis at 10 a. m. and arrived in Detroit at 1 p. m. He was rushed to a clinic at Harper hospital. Finishing his work there he climbed back in his plane and kept an engagement in Indianapolis that evening.

The next day he may have held the pulse of some tired business man, advised him to go slow and to play golf.

Nothing can excuse perspiration odor

For safety, keep pores purified

THE lure of many an attractive girl—the career of many a capable man—has been ruined by perspiration odor.

Yet how needlessly! Of course, we have to perspire. Physicians say it's healthful. Even on cool days, our pores give off about a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours. We become all too easily accustomed to this odor ourselves, but others detect it instantly.

A simple precaution

Yet it's so easy to guard against offending now. Millions have found that regular bathing with Lifebuoy not only refreshes and invigorates—but assures bodily daintiness always. Lifebuoy's mild and abundant antiseptic lather deeply purifies all pores, giving you bath-to-bath freshness of body.

Lifebuoy's gentle antiseptic lather removes germs, too—thus guarding health. Makes complexion fresh and clear. You'll delight in Lifebuoy for every toilet purpose.

What a clean scent!

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies. It quickly vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

Newspapermen Have Gathering

Assemble At Conneaut Lake Over Week-End For Convention

NAME MEADVILLE MAN PRESIDENT

Captain H. S. Phillips of the Tribune, Meadville, was elected president, E. T. Stevenson of the Herald, Titusville, vice president and M. E. Barton of the Breeze, Conneaut, was renamed secretary at the closing session of the eleventh annual gathering of the Conneaut Lake Newspaper Outing Association held Saturday and Sunday at Conneaut Lake.

The outing was attended by 250 persons, including newspaper publishers, representatives and families from all points in Northwestern Pennsylvania. The association was the guests of Henry O. Holcomb and the Conneaut Lake company at the Hotel Conneaut. It was the largest gathering held by the association during its existence.

During the sessions Fred L. Rentz, of the New Castle News, New Castle, the first president of the association, was honored by being appointed as a member of the nominating committee with E. T. Stevenson, Herald, Titusville, and E. C. Lampson, Gazette, Jefferson, Ohio. However, the committee decided to call for nominations from the floor.

The election resulted as stated in the foregoing; following which Fred Rentz paid a tribute to James B. Borland, Franklin, Pa., News-Herald, who had served consecutively for nine years. Mr. Borland replied following which the newly elected president, Captain Phillips, made a speech of acceptance and expressing appreciation of the honor conferred upon him.

During the two day session the newspapermen enjoyed a versatile program prepared by Mr. Borland and Henry Holcomb of the Conneaut Lake company. It consisted of vaudeville, golf and a tour of the various attractions. The newspapermen and their families were also guests at the dance pavilion Saturday night.

The principal spokesman during the Saturday session was Albert Brandon, judge of the municipal court of morals, Pittsburgh, a former resident of Lawrence county, who is also a publisher at East Liberty.

He described scenes which occur daily in his court where tragedy, pathos and humor stalk. Persons who come before him are between the ages of 16 and 21 and in discussing prohibition said the question has not yet been solved and advocated a "law with teeth."

The judge also said that in his experience he had found that "moonshine" was playing a bitter part in the lives of persons who have come before him and said the majority who violate the law are aliens and recommend exportation upon conviction.

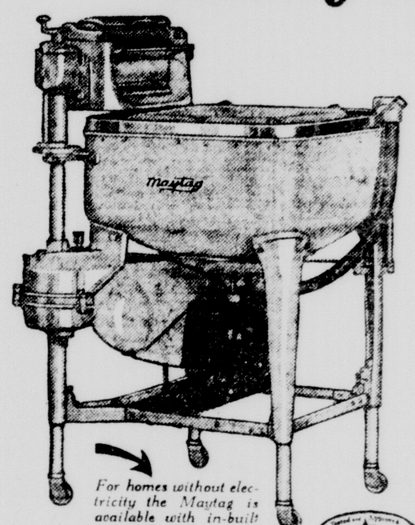
When You return to Your "Honeymoon Home"



For homes without electricity the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

WHEN you begin married life in your "Honeymoon Home," let the Maytag add to your happiness and comfort. It will help you stay young and will prolong the life of that dainty, beautiful linen found among your wedding gifts.

The Maytag washes by water action alone. It is hand careful with delicate clothes, yet so thorough that no hand-rubbing is necessary, even on the stubborn edge dirt of collars and cuffs—so rapid that an entire washing is done in an hour or so.

The quick-cleaning, self-emptying cast-aluminum tub keeps the water hot for an entire washing, and it will not dent, chip, rust nor corrode. The adjustable legs make it just your height.

The new Maytag Roller Water Remover has Safety Feed, automatic tension, self-reversing drainboard and instant safety release. The large, soft rolls remove both soap and water evenly from all parts of the garment without pressing hard-to-iron wrinkles into the clothes. Buttons go through unharmed.

There is only one Maytag
Here are some of the outstanding features

—Safety feed, Soft-Roller Water Remover, which spares the buttons, automatically adjusts the tension and reverses the drainboard.
—Cast-aluminum, heat-retaining, non-breakable tub; removes all the dirt, without hand-rubbing.
—Handy Hinged Lid and adjustable legs.
—Enclosed, silent steel gears.
—Big capacity, an entire washing in an hour.
—Compact; occupies a space 25 inches square.
—Lifetime construction, beautiful lacquer finish.

Maytag dealers everywhere follow the standardized rule of sending a Maytag to a home to do a week's washing free, and without obligation of any kind. This is the way all Maytag Aluminum Washers are sold. The Maytag must sell itself solely upon its performance in the home. It must wash everything to your entire satisfaction. Must wash everything quicker, easier and cleaner than other washers. Must wash everything—even collars, cuffs and wristbands, without hand-rubbing. Must prove to you, in your own home, that it is the most helpful home-laundering unit you have ever seen or used.

Capt. Smith Makes Golf Course In 72

Field Club Professional Beats Par By One Stroke; Sensational Golf

Sunday playing in top form, Captain V. Arthur Smith, professional of the New Castle Field club, made the eighteen holes of the golf course of the club in one better than par, which is now 73, as a result of the No. 16 hole having been lengthened from 420 to 470 yards and the par of the hole changed from 4 to 5. Had it not been for a little bit of bad luck in playing the No. 12, 13, and 14 holes, Captain Smith should have made the course in at least 69. His score was 72 against a par of 73. It will be remembered that Captain Smith made the course last year, about the time of the visit of the famous professional Kirkwood in 71, one less than the then par of the course.

It was in the first nine holes of the course, that Captain Smith made his bid for an exceptionally low score on the course. The par of the first nine holes is 36. He made them in 34, gaining a stroke on holes 4 and 6 and two on hole No. 8 and losing a stroke on holes No. 5 and 7, leaving him two strokes better than par.

In the second nine holes, he had the misfortune to lose strokes on holes No. 12, 13 and 14 which was offset to some extent by gaining a stroke at each of the No. 16 and No. 17 holes. This placed him one above par in making these nine holes, the par being 37 and making them in 38.

Captain Smith feels confident that he will be able to better this score before the present season is over, possibly by several strokes.

He left this morning for Oakmont Country Club, where he will spend the day practicing on the course of that club. He also plans of possible to get one or more days practice at the course during this week. The practice is in preparation for his entry next Monday in the qualifying round of the National Open Championship, which is to be staged there next Monday.

Commencement At Westminster

Orchestra Recital Is One Of Features Of Day At New Wilmington

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 4.—Plans for today, as the second day of the Westminster commencement activities, include a chapel service and an orchestra recital. The orchestra recital which is being given as a result of a special request from the college office will be given at 8:15 tonight in the auditorium of the United Presbyterian church.

Beside violin solos, which will be rendered by John Lowden, Victoria Luca and Frank Colegrove, the orchestra will present the following program:

March Militaire, Opera 51, No. 1, Franz Schubert.
Unfinished Symphony, Franz Schubert.
Serenade (cornet solo by Kenneth Baird) Franz Schubert.
Two Guitars, Horlick.
Kiki, Savino.
Three Dances from Henry VIII, German.
Vagabond King, Friml.
Coronation March (from the Prophet) Meyerbeer.

The accompanist of the evening will be Gladys Zeigler, a music student of the college.

Well, if there is a future life for the dead, we may meet a lot of our laws hereafter.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

MOTHER LOVE

"Which way in? Which way out?

"As we hesitated, things began to happen. Out from the forest came rushing the animals, large and small. A squirrel and a chipmunk scuttled by. Then a fox ran past us and so fast that we could only recognize him by the tip of his tail. After him, as fast as their legs could carry them, hurried a mother deer and her baby. A fat porcupine, too scared to throw a quill, followed them.

"Then whish! Swish! Whirr! Birds, chattering with fear, flew by. There were so many of these that we would have been dashed to pieces had we not darted out of their path and to hide behind a tree. Away they went, fleeing from the horrible thing that followed them.

"What was that! Streaks of bright flame shooting into the sky. Brighter and brighter grew the glare. Now we could see all about in the once dark woods.

"Crackle! The tree next us had caught fire. We must leave. All we had to do was to follow after those who had shown us the way. Then, in spite of our fear, we saw something that made us linger a few moments longer.

"Down from the top of the burning tree flapped a large bald eagle. We thought, of course, she was going to fly away, but did she? No siree! Up she winged her way again, straight into the heart of the flames. Why? We soon found out. We heard her cry:

"'Don't be afraid, my darlings. Mother is here. She will not leave you.'

"Nor did she. Higher and higher crept the flames until at last they had quite reached the treetops. Now the nest in the treetops had caught fire. Nothing could save the eaglets!

"UP SHE FLEW AGAIN, STRAIGHT INTO THE HEART OF THE FLAMES"

Why shouldn't that mother eagle seek her own safety! Wife and I cried to her to save herself, but she did not heed, if, indeed, she heard us.

"Instead that brave mother eagle forced her way through the fire to the edge of the nest, and there she clung. At last the flame and smoke hid her from our eyes. She burned to death with her little ones. Wife and I had to fly away or the fire would have caught us, too. But never will we forget that brave mother who died rather than leave her babies."

CHICKENCOOP IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

An alarm from box 76 at 9:25 o'clock Saturday evening called the seventh ward fire department and the chief to the home of Chris Ketzel, 217 East Madison avenue. Here they found that a chickencoop in the rear of the house had been set on fire with matches with which some children had been playing. The actual fire loss was about $10.

Easy HOUSEKEEPING

By MRS. MEG MACGREGOR, Director of Household Science

Drainboards snow white

-yet unscrubbed

Mrs. MacGregor has prepared for you a most interesting Easy Housekeeping Chart to hang in your kitchen. Send for your free copy.

One of my correspondents writes me that she is having a most discouraging time with a dingy, gray drainboard in a rented house. She says she has scrubbed 'til she is exhausted, and the stains and discolorations are still there. I've written to her to stop scrubbing at once! There is positively no need for it in these days of "easy housekeeping." The necessity for "elbow grease" vanished when Clorox appeared. No rub, no scrub, no worry. Just apply Clorox in the correct solution—the directions are on the label—and presto! shining, bright cleanliness everywhere.

Stained white porcelain

White porcelain, tile or enameled drainboards can be kept spotless in the same easy way. Always rinse well as soon as the spots have disappeared.

Bleaching hardwood floors

A woman wrote me from Denver to tell me what wonderful results she got with Clorox for bleaching her floors. She says: "First I washed the floors with soap and water. Then I applied a Clorox solution with a mop as directed. This I let stand for half an hour. I could see my floors growing lighter every minute. The Clorox cut the dirty wax and varnish and bleached the floors underneath. Then I rinsed them with clear water. When they were thoroughly dry my husband varnished, waxed and polished them. We were so proud of our work and all our friends thought we had new floors!"

Let me help you

If you have a problem of better, easier cleaning, do write to me. If I can help I will. My laboratory is always at your service. And if you have found better and easier housekeeping ways, won't you pass the good word along? Thousands of other women will be interested and I can tell them here—just as I tell you.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

The old familiar meat loaf and creamed potatoes are used in the following menu. Evaporated milk is substituted for the fresh, however. Sometimes in warm weather it is impossible to get ice or to keep fresh milk cool in other ways. Sometimes, too, fresh milk sours, due to atmospheric conditions. Therefore it is well for the housewife to have on hand several cans of evaporated milk.

Meat Loaf Creamed Potatoes
Seasonable Vegetable Salad
Fresh or Canned Fruit Cookies
Coffee with Evaporated Milk

Today's Recipes

Meat Loaf—One pound beef, one-half pound veal, one tablespoon suet, three tablespoons evaporated milk diluted with three tablespoons water, two cups bread crumbs, one teaspoon salt, two eggs, one slice onion, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt. Run meat and suet through a food chopper. Beat eggs well, add meat, milk and seasonings, then bread crumbs which have been soaked in water and squeezed dry. Mix thoroughly and form into a loaf. Place in a roasting pan oiled with one tablespoon fat and with enough water to prevent burning. Bake in a 375 degree Fahrenheit oven for one hour, basting often to prevent drying out.

Creamed Potatoes—Six medium potatoes, one quart boiling water, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one and one-half cups evaporated milk diluted with one and one-half cups water, three tablespoons flour, three tablespoons butter, salt to taste, pepper, parsley, finely minced. Pare potatoes and cook in boiling water, to which salt has been added, from eighteen to twenty minutes. Drain. Cut in one-half inch cubes. Have ready the white sauce made of the diluted, evaporated milk, flour, butter, salt and pepper. Add potatoes to white sauce, then add parsley just before sending to the table. Cold boiled potatoes may be used to prepare creamed potatoes, but special care must be taken to heat potatoes thoroughly in the white sauce. Raw potatoes may be diced or cut into balls with a French vegetable cutter and then steamed instead of boiled.

Mabel Boll Is Ready To Start Atlantic Flight

"Will Take Off Today If Pilot Can Be Secured," Says Famous Diamond Queen

WANTS TO BE FIRST WOMAN TO CROSS

(International News Service)

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., June 4.—"I'll take off today if I can get a pilot," declared Miss Mabel Boll, the "queen of diamonds", when she learned that Miss Amelia Earhart, aviatrix, and Wilmer Stultz, pilot, had flown from Boston to Halifax, presumably on the start of a flight to London.

Miss Boll is determined to be the first woman to fly over the Atlantic. She recently flew from here to Havana with Stultz and Charles A. Levine.

She said the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, in which Clarence Chamberlin and Levine flew to Germany last year, had been placed at her disposal for a flight to Paris and that she had engaged Stultz as her pilot. She appeared very much disturbed at the news that Stultz had hopped off with Miss Earhart.

"I am trying to get a pilot now to fly the Columbia to Paris over the Southern route," said Miss Boll. "If I can get a pilot today, I will hop off immediately."

Last Sight of Italia

Lost in the great Arctic, the giant "Italia," bearing her crew and Commander General Nobile, is seen here being held down by the ground crew just before taking off on its fatal trip over the North Pole. Bad storms with adverse winds are believed to have blown the "Italia" far off her course and the world has had no word since a frantic SOS was signalled.

Aviator Loses Cap In Swimming Pool

Apparently a lost and found column will need to be established for the benefit of aviators and their passengers from what hapened at Cascade Lake yesterday.

As one of the planes that was circling over the city swept down over the swimming pool to observe the bathing beauties there something was seen to fall kaplunk into the water and on fishing it out was seen to be the aviator's cap.

It is not known whether the airman intended to make a souvenir to one of the bathing beauties there or whether it fell off by accident, but if he wishes to secure his cap he may do so by calling on Billy Glenn at the park.

When one's hat falls off while on an auto ride one can stop and drive or walk back and secure it but when you lose your headgear while up in a plane how in the world are you going to stop your ship and where will you park it while you parachute down after your cap.

So we think there should be a lost and found column especially for airmen by the looks of the way planes were in the air Sunday.

Arrest Five In Norris Way Home

Stricken Girl Blames Self for Radium Poisoning

By SHIRLEY KIRKE
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent

"ONE LIFE—A little gleam of time between two eternities."—Carlyle.

Five women in New Jersey have been doomed to death by radium poisoning. One, Miss Grace Fryer, has offered her body, after death, to science that data thus obtained may help save others.

But Dr. Alexander O. Goettler, New York toxicologist, made a more startling suggestion. He said:

"We need more than bodies of victims. What is vitally wanted is for one of these unfortunate young women now in the throes of the poisoning to undergo experiments."

That science may have the laboratory it requires in its quest of a cure of the dread disease, Katherine Schaub, of Newark, came forward with an offer of sacrifice far and beyond any other made. She proffered her living body for experiment.

That the medical world no longer be helpless, Miss Schaub, who wants to live, though life has become a torment, is ready to hazard a hastened death. Others have willed their bodies to science.

Miss Schaub, like the American soldier in Cuba who gave his living form to the yellow fever germ and thus helped save mankind from the ravages of the disease, stands ready for the great sacrfice of letting science experiment with her while she breathes.

"I would like their assurance that their experiments would not hasten my death," she said in her home in Newark. "However, I am willing, with my fullest confidence in the doctors, to undergo experiments that may save the other girls. Life is sweet, and I would rather go along as I am now than die suddenly from an experiment that went wrong. All I ask, beyond assurance they will do their best to protect my life, is that they keep me in the sunshine."

There is a spiritual touch in her offer, for she finds an opportunity to assuage the pangs of recollection. It was as instructor in an Orange, N. J., watch factory that she directed other employes to touch radium-tipped brushes to their lips.

"I did not know it would harm them," she sighed. "I did it myself."

"Miss Monongahela" Gyps Youth In Florida, Gets Money And Valuable Ring

(International News Service)

MONONGAHELA, Pa., June 4.—After searching high and low for his Florida sweetheart who said she lived in Monongahela and to whom he gave a $500 diamond ring, Albert H. Berger of New York City is returning home today with his southern romance shattered.

For several days Berger looked for his intended bride here and made inquiries among residents—but to no avail. Berger told authorities here that he had met the girl in Florida, had presented her with sums of several hundred dollars, had given her a $500 diamond ring and that when they parted she told him she intended to return to her home in Monongahela.

Home Coming Week At People's Mission

Interesting Services Are Being Held All This Week At That Place

Home Coming Week is being observed at the People's Mission on Sampson street this week. The services started last night and will come to a close next Sunday evening. There is a different, interesting program being presented each night and the friends of the mission are being made welcome. Last night Richard Owrey, the superintendent of the mission, was in charge. A quartet consisting of Mrs. Richard Owrey, Margaret Owrey, William Owrey and George Johnson rendered the special selection "He is Mine". Judd McCann, president of the Young People's society of the mission, read the scripture lesson. The topic for the evening was "Trifling With God" and Richard Owrey, the superintendent, delivered a most interesting sermon on the subject.

This evening is known as speaker's night and any person who has ever attended the mission may speak. Tuesday evening will be observed as history night and Mrs. Margaret Owray, aged 77, one of the founders of the mission, will tell of its wonderful work in the past 37 years. Wednesday evening will be memorial night, Thursday evening will be observed as Sunday school night, Friday night as Bible students night and a love feast will be held Saturday night. Sunday next will be observed as an all day rally time for the members and friends of the mission.

Numerous Traffic Mishaps Occur

Number Of Week-End Auto Accidents Greater Than For Some Weeks

NO ONE SERIOUSLY HURT IN ACCIDENTS

The number of automobile accidents reported to the police over the week-end was larger than it has been for the same period of time in some weeks. Fortunately no seriously accidents were reported.

J. P. McGonigle of 37 North Beaver street reported that he was driving east on East Washington street near court street when a man driving an automobile, the number of which he did not secure, pulled out of the line of traffic and to avoid hitting this machine Mr. McGonigle ran his machine into a pole. Jack Johnston, who was riding with McGonigle at the time, was injured. He was removed to the office of a physician, where it was found that he was not seriously injured.

T. E. Scanlon of 308 Pine street reported to the police that it was his car that had been in the collision with the McGonigle car and stated that he had been signaling for some distance of his intention to turn into Court street when the accident occurred.

Charles Mozer of Clark, Pa., reported that he was driving south on S. Jefferson street near Home street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license B 36-963, going west on Home street, ran into and damaged his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Collins of 119 Scott street reported to the police Saturdal that as they were driving on Court street a car bearing Pennsylvania license 01-843 going south on Walnut street, at the intersection of the streets, came so near hitting their machine that they were compelled to drive up on the sidewalk in order to avoid a collision. The driver of the car bearing license 01-843 will be ordered into police court.

Keith Anderson of New Castle R. R. No. 1 reported Saturday that he was driving south on Moravia street and making a left hand turn into the plant of the New Castle Duntile company, when the car of Frank Senatore went to the left of his machine, hitting and damaging it.

William R. Jaxtheimer of 15 West North street reported Saturday that he was driving east on East Washington street beyond the switch at Rose avenue, when the car of Jack Acri of Youngstown, O., following his machine, ran into and damaged his car.

D. E. Myers of R. D. No. 3 reported Sunday that he was driving north on North Jefferson street in front of 19 North Jefferson street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 665-292 backed into and damaged his car.

Officer Thomas Lynch was detailed Sunday afternoon to investigate a car that had been standing at the corner of Leasure and Wilmington avenues for some time. He found it had been there since the previous night and ordered it taken into a local garage for safe keeping.

He hardly had time to return to the office until the owner of the car, Alric Minner of West Middlesex, Pa., appeared at the police station to make a report concerning the accident in which his car, which is his property, had been involved.

According to Minner, he had been driving toward the center of the city, when a car driven by a woman came out of Leasure avenue onto Wilmington avenue and crashed into his machine, upsetting it and pinning he and his lady friend in the machine.

The woman in the other machine got out and remained until they had been extricated from their unpleasant position, while a man in the car drove away in it before they could secure the license number.

Convention Singers Meet Early Thursday

Immense Chorus Choir To Sing At County Convention On Thursday

The singers from the various Sabbath Schools of the county who are to make up the chorus choir for the 90th convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association which is to be held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral next Thursday, June 7th, are urged to be at the Cathedral by 9 a. m. Thursday morning to meet with the director of music, John W. Owens.

The same singers who took part in the chorus of the state convention last October are urged to be present and they are requested to bring special Convention Choir Anthems. The sheets containing these anthems were handed out at the state convention to the choir members and if they still have them it is desired that they be brought. However, whether the anthem sheets were kept or not, come and join the chorus choir anyway.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, June 4—In one of the largest hotels in New York, where the average person might have the impression that no attention is paid to insignificant guests, there is a system of friendliness that makes visitors realize there is such a thing as hospitality in hard-hearted New York. This hotel has a man trained to visit male guests who are confined to rooms with illness. There is a woman to make the same visits to sick women guests.

Not long ago there was, in this particular hotel, a young woman from my Kentucky. She was alone, the few friends she had in New York didn't know she was in the city. She had an attack of tonsilitis and had to go to bed. For a few hours she made her condition worse by crying and worrying, because she was afraid she'd die of loneliness and inattention. But as soon as the manager learned of her illness, he got the hospitality machinery going. He arranged with telephone girls, who work in shifts, to spend off hours reading to the patient, had a physician call, arranged for special broths, sent in flowers and placed a matron at her service to do such shopping as she needed.

A reader of the Diary asks: "Is it harder for a young writer to succeed in New York than in the old home town? I have an ambition to be a novelist. I am willing to undergo hardships to realize it. I don't think I'll ever find encouragement here."

Supposing, of course, that he or she had the necessary talent, determination and energy, New York probably is the easist place to succeed. There are more opportunities.

Margery Latimer came to New York four years ago from Portage, Wis., with no money and a determination to write. She refused to seek a job that would interfere with her ambition, and eked out a living as a manuscript reader and book reviewer, while writing a novel. Her diet consisted mostly of raw vegetables and stale bread.

She found sympathetic friends, and persons of influence offered her financial aid, but she proudly refused it. There is plenty of such encouragement for ambitious and energetic youth in New York.

Miss Latimer's first novel, "We Are Incredible," is a success. Her short stories are in demand.

"I am glad that I refused offers of subsidization that kind people made. It is better to sand on one's own feet," she told me. "I know that when I have something to write, I will write it whether or not I have had a satisfying dinner that day. The travail of poverty can even provide an added stimulus."

And there are the examples of Anne and Alice Timoney, of my Kentucky. They set up here as authors with a second-hand typewriter and a load of courage and determination. Their first published story—the one that always gives authors the biggest thrill—appeared in a publication that suspended before they were paid for it. They supported themselves writing publicity for banks while composing three plays, one of which, "Bottled," is winning them attention on Broadway.

The Timoney play, incidentally, is all about a woman who turned out the best whisky in the state of Kentucky and was d—— proud of it.

The same artists who had to desert Greenwich Village when the influx of wealthier folk made rents go up, are now being pushed out of the art colony in Sutton Place and the East River by the advance upon the section of affluent notables. The result is that the artists are no longer endeavoring to cling to the island, but are scattering into suburbs. Some are taking over abandoned farms. "Bohemia" is no more.

HOW TO TREAT ECZEMA AND ITCHING SKIN

What every sufferer wants is quick relief from the terrible itching that almost drives them mad.

Nothing acts more quickly than Peterson's ointment when rubbed thoroughly into the skin. Many times all itching disappears overnight.

As a remedy to banish eczema and to rid the skin of pimples, blotches, and eruptions Peterson's ointment has been in great demand for many years—it's mighty healing power is marvelous.

A South Dakota woman writes: "I have found nothing so good for itching skin and insect bites as Peterson's Ointment."

An Iowa woman writes: "It is the only Ointment that helps control my Eczema," and from the State of Washington another woman writes: "It is the only Ointment I can find that will cure eczema."

Graduates Hear Able Address On Sunday Evening

the students presented a very impressive appearance as they wended their way into the seats, seemingly, never to end.

On the platform were the members of the high school's choir, the Rev. A. J. Randles, pastor of the Second U. P. church and the speaker of the evening, Rev. Landis. Rev. Randles pronounced the invocation and benediction, and read the scripture, closing with a most forceful prayer. The high school choir rendered several special musical numbers.

The high school orchestra played the processional and recessional marches.

At the close of the benediction, the audience remained seated and watched the seniors pass by on their first baccalaureate march.

Members of Choir

Members of the school's choir, which rendered the special musical selections, were as follows:

Soprano—Jane Allen, Katherine Bablarz, Katherine Preston, Mary Elizabeth Pitzer, Florence Scott, Florence Shingleton, Sarah Swan, Angela Windish, Virginia Yates.

Alto—Ruth Campbell, Frances Carlon, Charlotte Gibson, Alice May Huffman, Reba Sines, Virginia Slee, Dorothy Thornburg, Ruth Weir, Helen Wilson.

Tenor—Charles Bees, Edward Bryan, Williard McCowan, Arthur Meek, James Remley, Don Switzer.

Bass—Michael Caruso, Mac Chambers, Sam Fisher, Arthur Guy, Sam McCleary, Gilbert Powell.

Evening's Program

The program of the services and Rev. Landis' inspiring address follows:

Processional—"War March of the Priests from Althalia"—Mendelssohn—Senior High school orchestra.

Invocation—Rev. Andrew J. Randles, Second U. P. church.

"The Heavens Resound"—Arranged from Beethoven—Senior High school choir.

Scripture reading and prayer—Rev. A. J. Randles.

"Blessed Is the Nation Whose God Is the Lord"—J. S. Fearis—Senior High school choir.

Baccalaureate sermon—Rev. Geo. M. Landis, "Love at the Cross Roads"—First Baptist church.

"Softly Now the Light of Day"—von Weber—Senior High school choir.

Benediction—Rev. Andrew J. Randles.

Recessional—Baccalaureate March—from Mendelssohn—Senior High school orchestra.

(Baccalaureate sermon preached to graduating class of the New Castle high school June 3, 1928, by George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church.)

Text:—"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but he is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."—(I John 2:15-17.)

Mr. Chairman, members of the graduating class, ladies and gentlemen: I wish, first, to express a word of appreciation for the very high honor which has been conferred upon me in that I have been chosen to preach this baccalaureate sermon. It was an unusually great surprise when Professor Orth informed me of the fact that the graduating class had chosen me for this high service. I have been wholly unable to understand the basis of the choice. Surely it is not for the same reason that a certain son of Ham, who was a resident guest of a penitentiary in Georgia, thought that the Baptist Publication society should send some reading material to that institution. In his letter to the society, the colored brother said: "Ya' see de most ob us prisoners in hea am Baptists."

At all events, graduates, you have chosen me for better or for worse. I trust I may not prove to be like Sambo's wife, from whom he desired a divorce before the honeymoon was spent. His pastor, endeavoring to dissuade the dissatisfied groom, offered this as a final argument for continuance in the marital union: "You know, Sam, you took that woman for better or for worse." To which Sambo replied: "Yes, I know, parson, but she's a lot woos 'an I took her fo'."

Pleasure To Accept.

It is not only with a sense of great pleasure that I accepted this invitation, but also with a sense of great and grave responsibility. The wonderful opportunities of this occasion do not often come to a minister. The graduating class, with over 300 members, is in itself an audience which any man should be honored to address. But when we look at the great number of graduates, together with the citizens of this city, who make up this vast audience, we are well nigh overwhelmed with the immensity of our task. The opportunity to speak to so many young people, who are at that age when life's decisions are largely made, who are present on an occasion when every detail is apt long to remain with them; is beyond human estimation. When I realize that in what is said tonight, I may, by the grace of God, have a part in determining the destiny of a human soul, I tremble at the responsibility, and pray that God may give me utterance.

Need Vital Message.

In the face of this great responsibility, the choice of a subject has given us great concern and has been the occasion for much prayer. The issues are too great for us to spend the hour in entertainment, jest and humor. We would consider ourselves recreant to our trust if we sent you away with nothing more than sides aching from constant laughter. Infinitely better will it be to send you away with hearts burning, aflame with holy zeal and faces radiant with heavenly aspirations. Our prayer is that this message may be timely, vital, challenging, capable of moulding opinion and stimulating decision for a life of Godliness.

In the choice of our subject, "Love at the Cross Roads", I trust that none will suspect us of mere sensationalism. Some may think that we derived our theme from a recent article which appeared in New Castle's daily, The News, in which a warning was given that the farmers of this country would no longer tolerate automobile petting parties in the lanes and byways of their plantations. This is a type of "farm relief" which has not yet been brought to the attention of congress. And from certain things which we hace chanced to see within the limits of our fair city, the youth of today does not need much instruction in the art of love-making.

A careful reading of our text will show that our subject is thoroughly Scriptural, and one which may well command our attention on this occasion. But before going further, it may be well to consider a definition of love.

Defines Love.

It is very necessary for us to know what we are talking about. Some of the most common articles and experiences of life are exceedingly difficult to define. For example, give a clear, concise definition of electricity, fire, light, or assimilation. Now, who will volunteer a definition of love? As William Jennings Bryan said: "A scientist cannot explain love until he has fallen in love; then he is not scientific until he gets out."

As you know, there are several Greek words in the New Testament which are translated by the one English word "love". The word translated "love" in our text is the strongest word for love used in the Scriptures. It is invariably used in describing the Divine affection. It is employed in such notable passages as the following: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16). "He that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him" (John 14:21). "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him. Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins" (I John 4:9, 10). "Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood" (Rev. 1:5).

But as yet we have not defined love, unless each soul can derive from the passages just quoted a true definition of love. Perhaps we can do better than to quote Mr. Webster on the subject. He thus, in part, defines love: "A feeling of strong personal attachment induced by that which delights or commands admiration, by sympathetic understanding, or by ties of kinship; ardent affection; manifestation of a desire for, and earnest desire to promote the welfare of a person, especially as seen in God's solicitude for men, and in men's due gratitude and reverence to God."

Having defined love, and having witnessed the supreme example of love, namely, God's redeeming love for mankind; let us, in the second place, consider the despotism of love.

We are all the slaves of our affections. Love is the dominant passion in life. Love sits upon the throne. Intellect is but the confidential advisor, the private informant of love. Volition, that much praised and well nigh worshipped element of personality, is but the executor of love's decrees.

Modern Thought Confused.

There is much confusion in modern thinking. The will is generally held up as the self-determining agent in man, his ruler, his king, swaying the scepter over every other faculty of the personality. The will is frequently presented as an arrogant and capricious tyrant, with no one to successfully challenge its decrees. In the words of another: "Does the will stand apart from the other great faculties of the soul, a man within a man, who can reverse the man and fly against the man and split him into segments, as a glass snake breaks in pieces? Or, is the will connected with the other faculties, as the tail of the serpent is with his body, and that again with his head, so that where the head goes, the whole creature goes, and, as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. First thought, then heart (desire or aversion), and then act. Is it this way, the dog wags the tail? Or, is it the will, the tail, wags the dog? If the will the first and chief thing in the man, or is it the last thing—to be kept subordinate, and in its place beneath the other faculties? and, is the true philosophy of moral action and its process that of Gene. 3:6: 'And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food (sense-perception, intelligence), 'and a tree to be desired' (affections), 'she took and ate thereof' (the will)."

We see a widowed mother toil early and late, undergoing great personal privations and suffering, that her children may receive the necessities of life. We see her risk her own life, yea, even give her life for her offspring. Do we exclaim, "What a marvelous will, what extraordinary powers of volition?" No, most certainly no. Instead we cry out with admiration: "What a wonderful love!"

The function of the will is to choose. But the particular choice is determined by preference or desire. Hence the will is but the servant of the heart or the affections. Though contrary to much human philosophy and psychology, this principle is in keeping with the Word of God, for we read: "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life" (Prov. 4:23). "As a man thinketh in his heart' so is he." "For from within, out of the heart of men proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, and evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness" (Mark 7:21-22).

Essential to Knowledge.

We may also say that love is essential to true knowledge. It takes more than will-power to make a student. It may not be love for the particular study which provides the motive power for its mastery. Instead, it may be love for victory, desire for achievement, a craving for the mastery; but here, again, we are face to face with love as the supreme passion and the determining factor in life. An old Spanish proverb says: "To love and be wise is impossible." Observing some of the apparent inconsistencies and idiosyncrasies of certain lovers of the past and present, we could almost endorse the proverb. But when we look at love in the fullness of its meaning, we must say the proverb is incorrect.

The trade slogan of a certain popular cereal is voiced thus: "Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are." We might paraphrase this slogan and say: "Tell me what (or who) you love, and I will tell you what you are. Nay, more, I will tell you what you will become." Love money and you will become avaricious. Love learning and you will become learned. Love fleshly lust and you will become unchaste. Love God and you will become Godly.

Christianity is distinctive for the high place which it gives to the affections. It goes deeper than the religions and the moralities of the world in that it is not satisfied merely with principle, but must search the thoughts and intents of the heart. The Bible is replete with such injunctions as: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, strength, mind and soul." "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."

The first mark of spiritual declension is not intellectual error, or moral laxity; but, as is expressed to the Ephesian church in the following words: "Nevertheless, I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love" (Rev. 2:4). Constancy of love is essential to spiritual progress.

Having defined love, and having witnessed the despotism of love, let us next examine the directions which love may take.

From the text it will be seen that two courses are open to the heart. Love stands, as we might say, at the cross roads. Shall it invest itself in affection for the world and the things of the world, or shall it shower its devotedness upon God, the Supreme person, and the only one who is worthy of the totality of our love?

Pantheists Are Few.

"Love not the world." But what is meant by this strange prohibition? Does it mean that we are not to love the world of nature: the green earth with its towering mountains, beautiful valleys, fragrant flowers and singings birds? Surely, He who said: "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge," does not want be to spurn that which declares His creative power. Did not the psalmist say: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. From whence cometh my strength? My strength cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth." Did not the Master tell us to "Consider the lilies of the field?" Are the beauties of nature, the wonders of this universe, which testify to His eternal power and Diety to be despised? A few there may be who confuse God with His universe and succumb to a Pantheistic philosophy, or who literally become worshippers of nature rather than worshippers of the God of nature; but such are doubtless small in number.

Does it mean that we are not to love the world of humanity? Are we to manifest a spirit of indifference and aversion to our fellow men? While intimate friendship with Godless men is warned against, yet we must love the souls of men, and endeavor to win them to the God who "so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

World Embraces Much.

Does the text mean that we are to manifest hatred to the vocational world, the world in which we toil and earn our livelihood? Are we to condemn those trades and professions by which we are enabled to fulfill the command to "be diligent in business?" Of course, we again admit that it is possible for a man to make an idol out of his work or give to his profession that time which should be devoted to God in worship and service.

Manifestly, none of these three answers are correct. Evidently the world embraces something more than we have mentioned. The world of our text, while it may include elements of all three of the previously mentioned worlds, primarily comprehends this present world system which is not subject to the word and will of God. It is that order which is largely motivated by selfishness and cares but little for the good of humanity, and less for the glory of God. Alexander Maclaren calls the worldliness of the text: "The tyranny of the present; the attractiveness of something present, in opposition to something to come; the spirit of childhood carried into manhood." A child values some cheap trinket or toy more than some article of permanent and intrinsic value. So the worldling places a higher estimate on the transient things of this present time, and is blind to eternal values.

All Heard Call.

But love may take another direction. The heart may be yielded to God. The incense of its devotion may be offered to Him. But to love God, we must love Him; and to know Him is to love Him. This personal knowledge of God is possible only thru faith in the Lord Jesus Christ; for He it is who has declared Him. And when we know God in Christ by faith, then is "the love of God shed abroad in our hearts (literally 'poured out like a torrent') by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us" (Rom. 5:5). Unless our ears have been dulled by sin, each one of us has heard the Divine interrogation: "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me more than these?"

Because love stands at the cross roads, because there are two directions which love may take, we come naturally to our fourth point, the decision of love which determines the direction.

This is an individual decision. Each one of us stands at the cross roads. I cannot decide for you. You cannot decide for me. The words of the text are addressed to every Christian, and if you are not a Christian, then you are loving the world and its lusts. Each one has his own individual world wrich is alluring and enticing, and from which only the grace of God can deliver us.

Defines Worldliness.

The great preacher of Brighton, England, F. W. Robertson, says that worldliness consists of three things: attachment to the outward—the lust of the flesh; attachment to the transitory—the lust of the eyes; and attachment to the unreal—the pride and vainglory of life. These three, he says, are in opposition to love for the inward, love for the eternal and love for the true.

The text does not mean that we are to withdraw from the world of men and live as recluses. Even the hermit cannot escape from the world, for he carries the world and the flesh with him, and the devil is sure to follow. Instead the Master said: "As the Father sent me unto the world, even so send I you into the world." We are to go out into the world with the message of life, the gospel of salvation. Yet all the while we are to maintain a state of separation from the world. No better illustration of this principle can be found than the old one of the ship in the water. The ship fulfills its mission in the water and only there. But the water in the ship means destruction for the ship and death for its passengers.

But more, this is an inevitable decision. It is a law of human nature that two supreme affections cannot co-exist in the same person. Love for the world and love for God are mutually exclusive. If you love the world, you do not love God. Hear His own Word: "Know ye not the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God" (James 4:4).

We must love something. The text does not say: "Love God or nothing." Neither does it say: "If you do not love God, love no one else." Instead, it rightly assumes that man will direct his affections to someone. When Demas forsook the faith, it was because he loved this present world. The fact that he loved the world was sufficient evidence that the love of the Father was not in him.

World Cannot Satisfy.

It is an important decision, yea, the most important decision which we can ever make. It is important because of the eternal issues involved. The world cannot satisfy the soul. The Master said to the woman at the well, "He that drinketh of this water (the water of the world) shall thirst again; but he that drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst."

"But," cries someone, "how can I make this individual, inevitable, important decision? I want to love God. I see the advantage in it; but I seem bound and captive to the lower love. The world and its lusts have chained me. I am powerless to escape." Here comes in the gospel. Realizing your helpless and undone condition; admitting to God your sinfulness and baser love, will you accept Jesus Christ, the Son of God's love, as your personal Savior? If you will, if you do, then takes place that great miracle of grace, the new birth, the birth from above. You then become a partaker of the Divine nature, which includes a partaking of God's own love. With a new affection, heaven-born, you will then hate the things you once loved, i. e., the things of the world; and you will love the things you once hated, i. e., the heavenly, Godly things.

One's Destiny.

Having carefully contemplated the definition of love, its despotism, the directions which it may take, and the decision which determines the direction, it yet remains for us to consider the fifth and last part of our subject, the destiny which the decision of love determines.

The most convincing reason, if not the most important, why we should not love the world and its lusts and why we should love God, is because of the eternal results of these two kinds of love. The ultimate end or result should challenge our undivided attention. The two destinies are clearly presented in the text: the one is passing, the other is permanent.

Let us look first at the passing: "And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof." Can it be that this world which seems so massive, and its systems which seem to firm, pass away? Such is the positive declaration of the text.

World Passing Away.

There are evidences on every hand that the material world is passing away. No matter how many centuries it may have been in existence, whirling thru space, this world bears the marks of age and inevitable decay. Even the "eternal hills", by a constant process of erosion are wasting away. Scientists classify the mountains as young, middle aged and old. Every page of the book of nature bears this watermark: "The world passeth away." And to this agrees the word of God: "And thou, Lord, in the beginning has laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the work of thine hands: they shall perish, but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doeth a garment; and as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail" (Heb. 1:10-12). And again we read, "But the day of the Lord shall come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, and the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and Godliness" (2 Peter 3:10-11)?

History Passes.

The political world is passing away. History is but little more than the obituary of empires, the epitaph of kings and captains. When we turn our eyes to the pages of the past we see one vast procession of empires, kingdoms, commonwealths and republics, since the first world federation on the plains of Shinar centered around the unfinished tower of Babel. Like the successive varieties of flowers which from spring to autumn bloom upon the hillsides; they have risen, waxed opulent, decayed, declined and fallen. Egypt, Babylon, Assyria, Persia, Greece, Rome in their crumbling ruins and buried grandeur, by a tongueless eloquence declare: "The world passeth away, and the lust thereof."

It is unnecessary to stop longer to call attention to the fact that the intellectual world is passing away, as one system of philosophy, some new discovery of science, give the lie to the learning of the past. Need we linger longer to show how the social world with all its customs and methods of living, is passing away? Civilizations have laid buried for thousands of years which, in many respects, cause our modern age with all its achievements to wonder, if not to hide its head in shame. The people of the world have passed away. There are countless more living beneath the sod than are walking upon its surface. The great names of earth are chiefly found upon its tombstones or inscribed on the musty pages of history. It was once the custom of certain eastern monarchs, on the day of their coronation, to have a marble cutter present at the celebration, with several slabs of marble, from which the newly crowned king might select his grave stone. Thus the pride of man was kept abased. That cold marble kept ever before the king the solemn fact that "the world passeth away."

Must Face Facts.

While undue meditation upon this thought might lead to morbid conclusions, yet a certain degree of reflection upon this theme is salutary. We are too prone to spend our lives in a sphere of make-believe, regarding the temporal things about us, with which we are so familiar, as being everlasting. Let us face facts as they are. We need to take into our reckoning the thought of the passing character of all things worldly, in order that we may have the true perspective of life. Otherwise we may spend all of life plucking the withering blossoms of time and sense, or in chasing the butterflies of dying ambitions and vanishing desires.

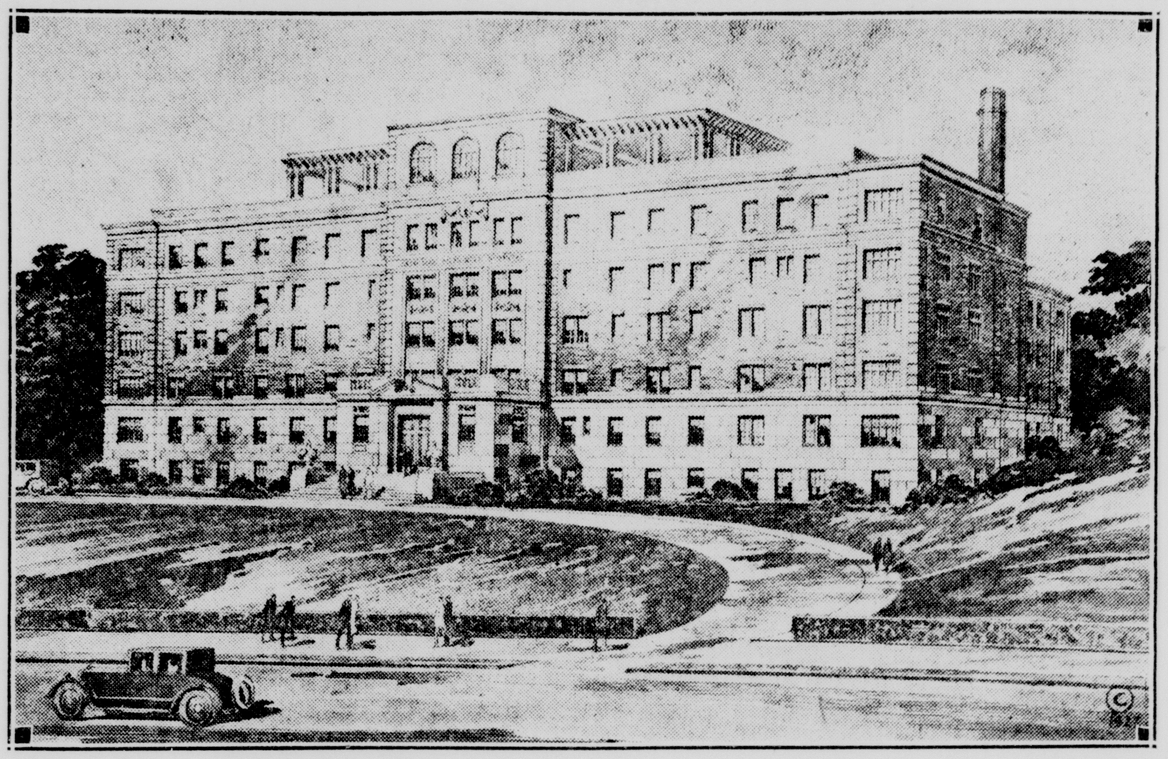
New Jameson Memorial Hospital



While the exterior of the Hospital is nearly completed, the formal cornerstone laying was delayed until Saturday. The stone was placed in the southeast corner of the front porch.

were used in placing the cornerstone of the Scottish Rite cathedral, smoothed down the mortar and made ready for placing the stone. The stone was lowered and the workmen saw that it was properly fixed.

Then the grandson, David Jameson McCreery, again stepped out in front of the stone, and said: "I find the cornerstone plumb. I find the cornerstone level. I find the cornerstone square. I find the cornerstone plumb, level and square, and laid in accordance with time honored custom."

This concluded the ceremony of the cornerstone laying.

Weingartner's Speech.

George T. Weingartner in his brief address introductory of the speaker at the cornerstone laying, said in part:

"We are met here to lay the cornerstone of the Jameson Memorial hospital, on this occasion. This is an event that marks an epoch in the history of our city. As the gift of one family this great institution has been reared to take care of the needs of the community. To those who knew Mr. David Jameson they are not surprised at the gift. It is a real work of love, of the great big heart of a man, a heart that reached out for all humanity. The gift and the spirit behind it are but carrying out of the life that the man had lived and an expression of the love that he had for his fellow man. It is fitting at this time that we are meeting here formally for the purpose of laying the cornerstone of the building, that is an institution that will help carry into effect the principles and the ambitions of Mr. Jameson for the people of this community.

"We are honored in having with us today a long time friend of Mr. Jameson, Dr. W. H. Crawford, who will make the formal address preceding the cornerstone laying." Mr. Crawford, when introduced, delivered a remarkable address, most fitting to the occasion. It is printed in full in an adjoining column.

In the Cornerstone.

The cornerstone was a block of marble about three feet wide and two feet high. It was laid on the southeast corner of the front porch of the hospital. Although the building is about completed as far as the exterior is concerned, the place was left available for the cornerstone laying in the days of earlier construction. The things that were placed in the cornerstone had previously been sealed in a small box and placed in the stone.

The cornerstone contains the following:

Clauses from the will of David Jameson relating to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Photographs of David Jameson, David A. Jameson, David J. McCreery and Jesse Allen McCreery.

Certified copy of the charter of the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Minutes of the meeting of the board of directors of the Jameson Memorial hospital of July 17, 1927, at which time Mrs. David Jameson and Mrs. Elizabeth McCreery donated to the Jameson Memorial hospital a sum not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) for the purpose of constructing and erecting a nurses' home and the acceptance of said offer by the board of directors.

Signatures of the architects, the W. G. Eckles Co., New Castle, Pa., and Stevens & Lee, consulting architects, Boston, Mass.

Copies of New Castle News, New York Journal and Post-Gazette of Friday.

At Field Club.

As the ceremonies incident to laying the cornerstone were concluded the entire party of spectators went to the Field club where the program was concluded in the large dining room, some 70 or 80 being present.

Assembled at the Field club before the guests were seated, Dr. Crawford asked for a short period of silence as a tribute to the memory of the two members of the hospital board who recently passed away. The guests stood in silence for about two minutes and then all were seated, and the dinner was served.

Mrs. Jameson Speaks.

At the conclusion of the dinner in the Field club, Mrs. David Jameson, whose guests those assembled were, arose at her place at the table and in a most impressive manner made a brief talk. She said:

"Some cynic has said that back of almost every action of man, or woman, is a selfish motive. I have never believed this, but I am free to confess there was a selfish motive in my invitation to you to lunch with me here today. I wanted to give myself the pleasure of meeting you all, of talking with you and holding you by the hand. I wanted the children, because the children of today are the youth of tomorrow, the men and women of the day after, and the grandfathers and grandmothers of next week. I want the children to remember this second of June, 1928.

"I have called you the hospital family, but 'family' is not the name I want to use. Clan is more fitting. Why? Because men will quarrel with the family, but they will fight for the clan. If you are a clan, you must have a castle, and I want the castle to be the hospital on the hill, whose cornerstone has been laid today. I want you to pledge your support to the institution, to promise that so far as in you lies, you will make it what its founder so earnestly desired it to be; not only a place of stone and brick and mortar, but a place of healing for the broken body, of comfort for the sorrowing heart, and of hope and cheer for the wounded spirit.

"Time was when men pledged their allegiance to a cause or a king, in a glass of good red wine. In many countries they do so yet; but we Americans, boasting loudly of our shackled freedom, may not do this openly. What we may not do openly, we will not do surreptitiously. Therefore I ask you to pledge your allegiance, and drink with me what, after all, is God's old world's best brew without which there can be no life. Will you stand and drink with me to the success of the hospital on the hill?"

At this point all in attendance at the dinner arose and drank the toast with Mrs. Jameson.

In conclusion Mrs. Jameson quoted:

"When Earth's last picture is painted and the tubes are all twisted and dried,
"When the oldest colors have faded, and the youngest critic has died,
"We shall rest, and faith we shall need it—lie down for an aeon or two,
"Till the Master of All Good Workmen shall put us to work anew.
"And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame,
"And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame."

Those Attending.

Included in the list of persons attending the cornerstone laying and the luncheon at the Field club were relatives of Mr. Jameson, members of the board of trustees and their families, members of the architect firms in charge and their families, head of the contracting firm in charge of the building, speakers, newspaper representatives and others.

The list included, in addition to Mrs. David Jameson, Mr. and Mrs. Will D. McCreery and children David J., and Jesse Allen McCreery; Dr. W. H. Crawford of Meadville, Pa., Mrs. Homer C. Robins of Warren, O., Mrs. Joseph Hapgood and Joseph Hapgood, Jr., of Warren, O.; Mrs. Fannie H. Jameson, Warren, O.; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Jameson and John H. Jameson, Jr., of Toledo, O.; John Boldt, wife and children John and Mildred of Cleveland, O.; James Blair and wife of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boldt and daughter of Cleveland, O.; Kenneth Mounts, Hon. George T. Weingartner, wife, daughters Elizabeth and Helen and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Lockhart and daughter Marion and Miss Hazel Ryhal, T. F. Morehead, John H. Lamb, Judge J. Norman Martin and wife, Fred L. Rentz and wife, Chester P. Reynolds, wife and two daughters, George D. Blair, Jr., wife and sons, Robert Dike and Thomas S., Norman A. Martin, Jr., and wife, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Ray and daughter Jessie, Jacob Rentz, wife and two sons Richard and Freddie, W. G. Eckles and wife, Robert Eckles, wife and two children Eleanor and Billie, Rufus McKinley, wife and two children John and Elizabeth, H. C. Heck, wife and three children Tom, Nancy and Louise, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ferver, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rappold, John Norris, wife and two children Ed and Sally, W. F. Walker and George W. Conway, wife and son George, Jr.

ADDRESS MADE AT CORNERSTONE LAYING CEREMONY

will hereafter attach to the city of New Castle because of this hospital.

The second thing I feel impressed to say is that back of the notable gift was a noble and benevolent purpose. This building represents much more than the turning over of well on towards a million dollars. It represents thought and a benevolent purpose, a desire to help, a feeling for others, a purpose to relieve suffering and to heal disease—and all this "regardless of race, creed or financial ability".

I heard Mr. Carnegie say once to a small company of men in his home in New York City: "I want to make it so that my money shall be working, doing good, long after I am dead." This stately building begun here is only incidental to what Mr. Jameson had in mind. Brick and mortar were only a small part of his high purpose. What he looked forward to was relief from suffering, the sick cared for and the injured receiving the attention of a skilled surgeon; and this going on through the years. He thought of his gift as "working", "doing good", long after his death. So in a sense this hospital will through the long years be a living monument to the generous thinking and planning and doing of David Jameson. You who knew him well will agree with me. I am sure, that it was characteristic of the man to do what he did. Like Abou Ben Adam, he was one who loved his fellow men. Other benefactions of his, for example, what he did for crippled children and his interest in public parks, bear witness to his kindness of heart and his sympathetic nature. It adds much to the fragrance of this noble gift that Mrs. Jameson and her daughter, Mrs. McCreary, have so generously supplemented the original gift and have from the beginning shown keen and sympathetic interest in the project. It is a lovely family enterprise, of which the grandchildren and their descendants may well be proud.

In various parts of this country of ours I have seen many memorial buildings, some of them buildings erected at very large expense—schools, libraries, churches. But I have seen comparatively few memorial hospitals. Mr. Jameson was a friend of education and he was a lover of books. But his keen eye saw what he considered the place of greatest need, and he decided to build this hospital. The heart of the man as well as his money are here. So I feel impressed to emphasize the fact of the noble and benevolent purpose back of this notable gift. The gift is so expressive of the man that I am almost sensible of his presence here.

The third thing I feel impressed to say is that this gift was made at an opportune time. Most astonishing progress has been made in recent years in the building and equipment of hospitals and in the methods of hospital work. We now have in this country an American Hospital Association. The purpose of this organization is to advance public welfare and promote the efficiency of hospital service in the United States and Canada. The association fosters the education and training of hospital workers, and on request gives accurate information concerning the organization, construction, management and equipment of hospitals and allied institutions. It offers membership to institutions and to individuals. This association has already proved itself to be of immense value. I take it for granted that its services are being taken advantage of in the erection of this building and that they will be further taken advantage of in its equipment and management. There is another organization which promises much for the hospitals and the people of this country, and that is a national committee on the cost of medical care. This committee held a meeting only last week at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York City. Fifty delegates were present. The task assigned to this committee is to study the problem of delivering adequate scientific medical service to all the people, rich and poor, at a cost which can be reasonably met by them in their respective stations in life. Four sub-committees were appointed at the New York meeting—a committee on income, a committee on facilities, a committee on cost and a committee on experiments. Side by side with these organizations is a movement for extending hospital service into large rural communities throughout the United States. The state of Iowa has made very considerable progress in the building of such hospitals. Other movements for the improvement and extension of hospital service have been attracting serious and wide attention. You already see, do you not, what I meant in saying that this gift was made at an opportune time. Because of the organizations named and the movements referred to, it will be possible to put in this hospital you are building the very best and the very latest in hospital equipment. To the physicians who shall serve here and the surgeons who shall operate, the significance of this is beyond all calculation. Many a skillful surgeon is seriously handicapped because of lack of adequate hospital equipment.

A very distinguished Oxford professor said not long ago that the scientific control of disease was one of the four greatest discoveries of the last thousand years. It is a matter of common knowledge among medical men that the highest heights of this scientific control have been reached in the hospitals. This Jameson Memorial hospital will be so equipped for service that the very latest in the scientific control of disease will be put into practice. Another thing, the equipment and management of this hospital will be such as to give it contact with the best hospitals of our large cities. It will have certain contacts, too, with the leading hospitals of the world, and with the leading physicians and surgeons of the world. This also is part of what I mean by saying that this gift was made at an opportune time.

And now we come to the act for which we have gathered here. We are to lay the cornerstone for the foundation of a house to be builded and dedicated to the "benign mission of mercy, charity and love, exemplified in the alleviation of suffering". The act of laying a cornerstone is of very ancient origin. It has been faithfully observed in the erection of public building through long centuries. It is an act of marked significance. Unborn generations will look upon this stone which we lay and know what we did here.

Mr. President, as a citizen of western Pennsylvania for more than a full generation, and for many, many years a friend of David Jameson, I bring you my most hearty congratulations on the rare opportunity which is given to you and your associates on this board. You are to have the high privilege of helping to carry out here the noble and benevolent purpose of a generous benefactor. You will be called upon to make sacrifice of time and comfort. But you can well afford to make the sacrifice. Yours is a sacred trust as well as a great opportunity. I charge you therefore that you improve well your opportunity and that you guard faithfully the trust committed to your care.

Through you, Mr. President, I would extend my felicitations to all the people of New Castle and the surrounding communities, and I would say to them that they are highly favored in what is being wrought here on this hill. The notable gift is theirs and the noble and benevolent purpose back of it is theirs too. A great service will be rendered here and New Castle will be enriched by it in many and large ways. A benign misston of mercy is being established here. You have my congratulations, all of you.

Hope springs eternal, and ten million middle-aged people tried strawberries again this year in the belief that they might not act that way this time.

Fine Interest In One Day Institute At Central Church

Representatives Are Attending From Christian Churches Throughout The County

Dr. W. S. Lockhart, director of the Church Life Foundation with headquarters at Indianapolis, is conducting a one day institute in Central Christian church of this city today.

Representatives from many of the Christian churches throughout Lawrence county are in attendance. The meeting is proving to be one of exceptional merit and greater interest is being created for the spiritual enrichment and efficiency of the church.

Dr. Lockhart was present at the services on Sunday morning and was greeted by a large and appreciative audience. He gave a most forceful and inspirational message on "Three Scenes of the Transfiguration."

In the course of his remarks Dr. Lockhart said that we were facing a confused and baffling hour when ten of the major Protestant bodies lost a half million souls which was due to decreasing power of expression and lack of expansion, in the local church is the most serious problem in Protestantism.

In the church 25 per cent are carrying the load and 75 per cent doing nothing. Sixty per cent of our Sunday school pupils are not received into the church membership, yet 75 per cent of our accessions come into the church through the Sunday school, but more significant than this, we lose 75 per cent of our young people from the membership of the Sunday school and the church before they are 18 years of age. Concerning evangelism, he said that according to the figures of the superintendent of evangelism, we had 200,000 accessions to the churches yearly for three years but at the end of the three-year period it was found that the net gain had been about 50,000. During the last three years or the time of the brief history of the Church Life Foundation, there has been noted a rising tide of spirituality among the churches.

At the evening service Wallace Tuttle, music editor of the Christian Board of Publication, was present and assumed charge of the music, singing impressively two fine selections.

Plaingrove Man Appointed Foreman Of June Grand Jury

Floyd W. Rodgers of Plain Grove township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury which convened this morning. Members of the jury excused were William Kocher, Fourth Ward; Emmet Liebendorfer, Perry township; Margaret Nelson, Washington township; Francis Nesbit, Little Beaver township; Maud B. Offutt, Second Ward, and W. E. Riney, Fourth Ward. After instructions by Judge Hildebrand the grand jury retired to court room number two where District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, will present a long list of cases.

To Wed Doorman

Miss Eunice Swetman, daughter of a bank president of Biloxi, Miss., is engaged to wed Arch Bonge, college graduate and doorman for a New York City movie palace. But Bonge is more than a doorman—or at least he's only a doorman by night. Daytime he's an artist, and he acts as a doorman to enable him to continue his art career. Miss Swetman has appeared on the stage.

Northern Chinese War Lord Luckily Escapes Injuries

Marshal Chang Tso-Lin Retiring Into Manchuria Escapes As Bridge Is Bombed

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 4.—Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, the Northern war lord who left Peking as swarming hordes of Southern Chinese troops poured into the city, arrived safely at Mukden, Manchuria, although he suffered a narrow escape from death when his train was wrecked by the bombing of a bridge enroute, an exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokio stated today.

During the journey, it was reported, the train guards opened fire with machine guns upon a party of alleged Southern troops, dressed in civilian clothes. Thirty of the alleged Southerners were killed.

Japanese troops are reported to have arrested two Chinese in whose possession bombs were found.

Dean Freeman Is Completing 34 Years Of Service At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 4. Dean Charles Freeman, head of the department of chemistry at Westminster College, completes 34 years of service on Wednesday. Beloved by students, alumni, and fellow members on the faculty, Dr. Freeman holds the unique distinction of being a college dean and one of the most popular members of the faculty, two things which seldom go together.

Coming to Westminster in 1894, Dr. Freeman has been a source of inspiration to nine different generations of college students, and has taught and advised members of 38 different classes.

Dean Freeman was graduated from Allegheny College in 1891, received his A. M. and Ph. D. degrees from the same institution in 1892 and 1894. From 1892 to 1893 he was an instructor in Williamsport Dickinson Seminary. During 1921 and 1922 he took graduate work at Johns Hopkins University.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and a member of the American Chemical Society. Despite the fact that he is one of the older members on the faculty, Dean Freeman is as active as the liveliest freshman and is hard to beat on the golf links. He will return to Westminster next year, and following his 35th year here will be granted a year's leave of absence.

Statement Of Claim To Be Stricken Off; New One Permitted

In the case of Isadore Yanosevich against Myron S. Gelbach and others, an opinion was handed down by Judge Hildebrand in court this morning in which a rule to show cause why a statement of claim by plaintiff should not be stricken off is made absolute. The means that the statement is to be sticken off. Permission is granted, however, for the plaintiff to file a new statement of claim. The trouble grew out of the sale of an Ellwood City theatre, it being alleged that a verbal agreement had been broken.

City Purchases Ton And Half Truck

Council met today in the city building and upon recommendation of Councilman D. O. Davies purchased a one one and one-half ton truck, cab, hydraulic hoist with a three-yard body for $1,950 from the Reo Sales Co. of this city. Recently bids were submited to council. The truck will be for the use of the street department.

Costs 50 Cents To Have Traps Inspected

Council today reported from committee an ordinance supplementing the plumbing ordinance which will impose a charge of 50 cents for an inspection of floor traps, required by the plumbing code. The money is to be paid to the city, council stated when the body convened in the city hall this morning.

City Honors Bill For Repairing Sewer

When council met today they decided ao pay $63.95 to the Pittsburgh Plumbing company, this city for repairing the Cohen sanitary sewer, Moravia street. Recently it was explained by city attaches that when another city was built by the city it was constructed in such a way that it caused trouble in the Cohen sewer.

The unchristian view of this passing world may lead to such a gospel of desolation as Buddha left to men where eternal extinction of being is the supreme goal. Someone has well termed this philosopy of life "the opium drunkenness of the spiritual world without the dreams that are its temporary consolation". Or the non-christian may adopt that other gospel of unrestrained indulgence, whose sacramental phase is: "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die;" or that equally Godless slogan: "A short life and a merry one."

"All is Vanity."

Not only does the world pass away, but likewise its lusts, its desires. Our capacity to enjoy may pass away, or what is still more tragic, we may still lust with no power to gratify it. Either condition is terrible to contemplate. Desire may turn into the loathing of overindulgence. He, who was late the emporor of Germany, once said that the saddest sight to him was a prince who had gone thru everything. That great king, who, perhaps, drank at more of the wells of human pleasure than any other mortal, at the end of its all, said: "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity."

Let us turn, now, from the passing to the permanent: "But he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." The thought of permanence, in our text, is connected with that being who is eternal, the great I am, the true center of all being. From the fleeting mists of earth we turn to the Rock of Ages towering o'er the wrecks of time. All the earth is passing away, but Thou, O God eternal, Thou remainest: Thy years shall never fail.

Abiding forever means more than conscious existence for ever more. Eternal life refers to quality of existence, not merely to duration. The great definition of eternal life was given by the Lord of Life, Himself, in these words: "And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou has sent." That blessed condition may be epitomized in the phrase, "Forever with the Lord".

Time For God.

But what is involved in "doing the will of God"? How may we meet this condition for eternal permanence? Again we turn to the word of Him who spake as never man spake, who, in reply to the query "What shall we do that we might work the works of God?" replied: "This is the work of God (and work here is the performance of the will of God), that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent." That is the starting point, accepting as your own Savior, the Son of the Highest. Then it is walking by faith the remainder of the journey, being ever zealous to obey His slightest wish. In other words, it is living for God, submitting the life to Him, yielding our love to Him that loved us and gave Himself up for us. Do this, my young friends, and you will abide forever in the kingdom of the Father.

The worldling is like that poet who chose as his epitaph: "His name was writ in water." So those who love the world do no more than inscribe their names in the rolling, restless sea of time, there soon to be erased and never more remembered.

Let us lift our eyes to the towering Gibraltar of the eternal God, obedience to whom is man's highest duty; and for whose glory all the sons of men should strive. On the imperishable Rock of Deity we see indelibly inscribed such names as Abraham, Moses, David, Daniel, John the Baptist, Peter, John, Paul, to which we shall not attempt to add the names of worthies since Bible times.

"Love Not the World."

Where will your name be engraved? Which of these destinies will be yours? As your love stands tonight at the cross roads, which way will it take? Once more may there ring in your ears, as I trust it will in years to come, the words of our text: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

Put Health Centers In Venango County

County Medical Director Examines 150 Children Of Pre-School Age

MERCER, Pa., June 4.—In Venango county 150 children of pre-school age of six years have been examined at the health centers established in that county by Dr. S. J. Dickey, the county medical director of Venango and Mercer counties.

Dr. Dickey reports 16 centers to which the children were brought by the mothers where they were examined free of charge by himself.

The doctor reports that 60 rural schools in Venango county have petitioned him to immunize the children housed in them during the coming year.

The immunization is against diphtheria and the treatment is given free by the state.

Daylight Saving Time To Be Used At Court House

Court will be run on daylight savings time this summer, according to an announcement made by Judge Hildebrand this morning. This will mean that it will open an hour earlier than last summer when it was run on standard time. The rule will hold good with the exception of Monday mornings when jurors are summoned to appear, when court will open on Eastern Standard time.

You can tell whether you are Presidential timber. Are you the kind of man for whom a friend would blow fifty thousand?

New Kensington Dance Marathon Is Begun Today

(International News Service)

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., June 4.—Forty-three couples are shuffling away on the Nu-Ken Gardens dance floor here today in the Allegheny valley's first dance marathon, which started at 12:45 a. m. with Burgess Daniel Burn officiating as starter.

Although those in charge of the marathon are determined that there shall be opportunity for a new marathon dance record, no effort will be made to conduct the dance in New Kensington on Sunday. They say the contestants will be loaded on a boat Saturday night and be taken to East Liverpool, O., over Sunday, returning to New Kensington Monday.

Arrangements have been made for the winner to collect 10 per cent of the receipts, with the runners-up getting five per cent. Those taking third place will get two per cent.

Authorize Mayor To Complete Deal

Mayor William Gillespie today was authorized by colleagues during council session in city hall to arrange to secure two new motorcycles for the police department, per his request to solons.

One machine will have a sidecar and in addition a new speedometer will be purchased. The old machines will be traded in.

What Boy Scouts Should Take Along For Camp

What the Boy Scout should take to camp with him this summer is described by J. Lee Calahan, scout executive for Lawrence county.

Every scout should construct a box with lock and key, says Mr. Calahan. The box should be able to fit under his cot. The equipment to be kept in the box should be as follows:

Clothing—Scout uniform if you possess one. Extra shirt, extra underwear and an extra pair of stockins. Be sure to have a good pair of stout shoes or your trip will be a failure. Read your hand book on hikes.

Pair of shoe laces.
Old trousers or overalls.
Night shirt or pajamas.
Bathing suit.
Sweater or wool shirt.
Raincoat.
Pair of sneakers.
Toilet articles.
Tooth paste in case.
Tooth brush.
Towels.
Comb.
Small mirror.
Wash rag.

Bedding—Blankets. Most scouts do not bring enough blankets. These should be five pound wool or its equivalent. A comfort is almost useless.

Note book, pencil.
Safety pins.
Bible or prayer book.
Scout handbook.
Pocket knife.

Brides in Ten Cities Tell Housekeeping Plans

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A thousand brides in ten large cities disclosed their household plans in a recent survey.

On one point all these brides agreed. Their homes are to be run with skill, but they will not sacrifice a bit of good looks or charm. For instance, nearly all have decided how they will keep nice hands in spite of housework.

Many had noticed in beauty parlors that pure Lux suds are used in manicuring, to soften and whiten the fingers. Others had noticed how nice their hands looked after washing fine things with Lux. So, of 1,118 brides, 1,084, or 97%, plan to wash dishes with Lux.

"It's so easy never to let your hands get red and coarse-looking," they said. "Many soaps make the skin harsh, but pure Lux suds are so soothing and gentle! And Lux for dishes is inexpensive, too, because the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes."

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN
Noted Beauty Expert

The Arch is the Foundation of Posture

The human arch is probably the most perfect structure Nature ever made—and on the strength of it rests all your foot comfort and not a little of your beauty.

Fallen arches seem minor things to people who have never had them, but if you happen to be one of the multitude who suffer this affliction, you are under no delusions as to the importance of a strong, wellpreserved arch. There's a lot of weight resting on two slender feet. Women don't stop to think of that often enough. If they did they would adopt every good foot-saving suggestion so as to save these slender supports.

Absurdly high heels aren't pretty and no amount of style dictates could ever make me think they were. But quite apart from beauty or the lack of it, they add another burden to the poor over-worked arch, by throwing the weight unevenly upon your foot surface. If every woman would do no other exercise but rising on her toes eight or ten times every time she takes off her shoes, there would be a great deal less foot trouble in the world. This is an excellent arch strengthener. Should you have "flat feet", I urge you to wear orthopedic shoes. Now that there are so many specialist shoes on the market you can find marvelous aid in the right kind of shoe.

Toeing out is another frequent fault observed among American women. It causes great strain on the inner part of the soles and tends to induce both flat feet and knock knees. An especially good exercise to correct this is to walk around the house on the outer edge of your bare feet, also to build up the inner edge of the shoe-sole as described below under the paragraph on knock knees.

The Indian walk is a sure footed step made with feet pointing directly forward.

Probably the most unfortunate of leg evils is bowlegs. Bowlegs are developed in early infancy, through allowing the baby to walk too soon, through malnutrition, or improper lime content in the child's bones. When a baby develops this tendency to bowing the first thing to do is plan on having the child in direct sunlight for a part of each day.

Remember the sun must strike the child directly, with neither window-glass nor clothes between. Next add cod-liver oil to the child's diet. See that he has plenty of orange juice and vegetables such as carrots, spinach, etc., on his menu, keep him off his feet as much as possible.

I have known in my own experience nothing further than these suggestions faithfully followed to correct a most noticeable case of bowlegs in seven months. Sometimes a doctor will advise binding the little legs, sometimes he will perform an operation.

Remember this, bowlegs are correctable, and they are an affliction a child resents, one that remains for a long time.

Knock knees are not so difficult to correct. They, too, indicate faulty bony structure, but with this condition your first consideration should be the shoemaker. He can insert a thin wedge of leather along the inner sole so that the foot is thrown slightly outward. This alone has often been sufficient to correct knock knees.

For foot-beauty and foot-health avoid run-down heels. Rubber heels will save your spine many a jarring shock, an important consideration in this Age of Asphalt. Invest in good shoes. I have often felt that to preserve the feet is to go far toward preserving beauty!

New Castle Folks Meet In California

Gathering Of Local People At Laguna Beach, California, On Memorial Day

A most enjoyable affair was the gathering together of New Castle people at Laguna Beach, California on Memorial Day according to a letter from Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Williamson who are returning to New Castle soon.

The day was spent in the renewing of old acquaintances and the life of the party was said to be Mrs. Julia Cline Mitte, with her comic songs.

Those present were Robert Black, Mr. and Mrs. Waddington and daughters Pearl and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson and daughters, Donna and Edys, Mrs. Julia Mitte, Earnest Mitte, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. McCray, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davis, Mr. and Mrs. John Cline and daughter Kathryn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson and children, Frank, Jr., and Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Ira McKinley, Mrs. Delbert Burry and son Freddie, Mrs. Joe Clark, Joe Clark, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Kennelly and Mr. and Mrs. I. Evening Swimming Classes To Close

The evening swimming classes at the Ben Franklin high swimming pool will be discontinued after Tuesday night of this week, said Edwin H. Geasa today. Mr. Geasa is the swimming instructor at the junior high school.

Tonight will be the finish of the evening swimming classes for women and girls. The session tonight will start at 7 o'clock and will consist of an exhibition of life saving.

Tuesday night the boys and men will hold their final class session of the year and will put on a life saving demonstration and also other stunts in various styles of swimming and fancy diving. The demonstrations will start at 7 o'clock daylight savings time.

Geasa is leaving New Castle this year and will teach elsewhere next year. The swimmers of the city regret his departure. Tuesday will mark the last class to be conducted by Mr. Geasa at Ben Franklin junior high school. The New Castle school is losing a most capable instructor.

PREPARING FOR KIDDIES DAY

Cut Rates To Prevail When Thousands Of Youngsters Go To Park

Kiddies day will be held June 12 at Cascade park, according to Carl Shaner, park manager, who stated today that he anticipates that thousands of children will wend their way to the recreation center to enjoy a full day's outing which will be featured by "cut rates" on all of the amusements and a program of athletics which is being arranged by Jack Hulme of Westminster college and Ed Fritz of The News. Last year kiddies day was featured by a crowd of thousands, although rain fell until 1 o'clock.

Shaner has made arrangements with the various concessionaires for a "three and five cent rate". Coupons will be available for all of the youngsters who travel to the park.

The three-cent rate will prevail on the merry-go-round, seaplane, old mill, pony track, miniature railroad, miniature Ferris wheel, Custer car, Brownie coaster and launch and the five-cent fare on the dodge 'em, tumble bug, laugh in the dark, tilt-a-whirl and also for pop, hot dogs and ice cream cones.

Loses Six Fingers; Peculiar Accident

Seventh Ward Man In Hospital After Accident On Railroad Crossing

Roy Cameron, aged 35, East Madison avenue, in some as yet undetermined manner, on Saturday night about 10 o'clock, sustained injuries at the Cherry street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, which resulted in the amputation of four fingers of his right hand and two of the left hand. Apparently he was caught in some manner between cars or on the cars of the Pennsylvania at the crossing as he was on his way home and lost his fingers.

Apparently the first that was known of the accident was when he rushed into his home on East Madison avenue in his rather terribly injured condition. His mother was alone at the time. She called a physician and on his arrival he rendered first aid treatment, then ordered him to a hospital. Mr. Cameron was then removed to the Shenango Valley hospital in an ambulance, where his condition is reported to be as good as could be expected.

Westminster Class Enjoys Twenty Year Reunion

From a membership of 41 scattered in all parts of the country, on Saturday at 1 o'clock, 14 members of the class of 1908, Westminster college, with the husbands or wives of three members as special guests, held the first reunion of the class in many years.

The scene of the reunion was the private dining room of the New Castle Field club and it proved one of the more delightful events of the lives of many of those present, owing to the fact that it is quite a number of years since the members of the class had been together and the delightful time occasioned by the reminiscences told and recalled by the very happy gathering.

That 14 members of the class could be brought together was considered rather remarkable, because of the fact that while 26 of the members reside in the Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania district, there are six members in Texas, one in Idaho, one in Missouri, one in Oklahoma, one in California, one in Columbus, O., one in Philadelphia, one in Youngstown, one in Massillon, O., and one in Cincinnati, O.

Attorney J. Roy Mercer of this city acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies. Prior to the serving of the banquet at 1 o'clock the time was spent in renewing old friendships in the spacious Field club house. During the time of the banquet and following it, letters were read from members unable to be present and who expressed their regret. The letters read included those of Miss Mabel McCoy Henderson of St. Louis, Mo.; Rev. William G. Felmeth, Milton, Pa., and J. Franklin Brown of Cincinnati, O. The color scheme of blue and white, the college colors, was carried out in spring flowers.

After the banquet a number of those in attendance went to Westminster and viewed the new buildings, which mean a much greater and better Westminster of the future.

The committee responsible for the very delightful and successful affair consisted of Miss Ada C. Park of Pittsburgh, Attorney Fred C. Houston of Pittsburgh and Attorney J. Roy Mercer of this city.

Those present at the event were Mrs. Eleanor Clark Hood, Pittsburgh; Miss Ada C. Park of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Grace Knox McIntire, Pittsburgh; Miss Margaret Bell, Greensburg, Pa.; Mrs. Irene Galbraith Ivory, Sewickley; Miss Clara Dickey, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Bertha Magnus Vogeley and husband, George P. Vogeley, Wilkinsburg; Samuel Martin Jamison and wife, Apollo, Pa.; Mrs. Mary McClenahan Bell and husband Harry K. Bell, New Castle; A Kirk Thompson, Ellwood City; Robert J. Dobbs, New Castle; Attorney Fred C. Houston, Pittsburgh; Attorney J. Roy Mercer, New Castle, and Dr. Z. Roscoe Scott, Pittsburgh.

Two Explosions Precede Fire

All Stamford's Fighting Forces Called Out To Battle Blaze

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

STAMFORD, Conn., June 4.—Two explosions followed by fire apparently sweeping a large area, called all of Stamford's fire fighting forces to the plant of Richards & Co., a Du Pont De Nemours Corporation subsidiary, in South Stamford today.

No casualties resulted from the explosion, as far as could be determined half an hour after firemen reached the plant.

The Richards & Company plant has been the scene of serious fires in the past. The concern makes leather goods. During the war the plant manufactured guncotton. Large quantities of chemicals are used in making the present output of the plant, and it is believed the explosions today occurred among chemicals.

Promptly at 8 tomorrow this the biggest of our Summer events swings into action. Although prices remain fixed we advise early in the week shopping—for quantities will be sold off in some cases—and shopping facilities taxed to the utmost during the later part of the week. To the right are a few of the many $1,000,000 sale values.

an annual event
It has taken a full year to prepare for this event—it is Fisher Brothers crowning achievement. We should like to do things as great as these several times a year . . . but it just can't be done. It takes a year of preparation. Every manufacturer in Europe and America who has previously sold Fisher Brothers goods was asked to submit his wares and price. Everything not perfect of its kind was rejected. Goods were ordered in quantities so great (to secure lowest price) that we kept entire factories in production.

in which a $1,000,000 worth of merchandise is reduced in price
A million dollars worth of merchandise has been reduced in price in all Fisher Brothers stores. Fresh seasonable merchandise is offered during this sale—not clearances or odds and ends. All specially priced items remain on sale at the same price throughout the sale, or until entire quantities are sold. When quantities are exhausted they cannot be replenished at the same price. When comparative prices are quoted, they are based on the actual regular selling price.

Charge Southern Postmasterships Have Been Bought And Sold

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—An exhaustive investigation of charges that postmasterships have been bought and sold in the south was promised today by Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, chairman of the special investigating committee named by the senate.

The committee will get under way shortly after the Republican national convention and will continue its inquiry all during the summer Brookhart said.

The investigation resulting from the joint demand of Senators Harris and George, Democrats of Georgia, will be the first ever conducted in this field.

It was brought about largely by the sensational suicide of L. S. Peterson, postmaster at Douglas, Ga., who left correspondence on which the Georgia senators based charges that the job was bought and sold.

Republican national committeemen especially will come under the scrutiny of the committee.

The first witness probably will be Postmaster General New. After a conference with the postmaster-general, Harris and George announced that they had asked for full co-operation in the inquiry and promised that they would expect every effort to give a "square deal" to everyone involved.

Two Oppose New Playground Plan

Differences between persons residing in the vicinity of Balph avenue, Morris and Sharp streets and it is possible that children in that section may not have a protected playground.

Some time ago council indicated its plan to purchase the Golis land and within a few days objections were made to the city.

The protesting persons claim the noise will affect them when they work the midnight turn in the mills.

Council has indicated there is a difference between these people and the Golis faction.

The children have been playing on church property.

Mike Henry and Joseph Naderesnky appeared today as protestants against the city making the new playground.

Mike said he had children but that he believed that children should play in their own yard.

He said he had been before council before but that his name had not got into the newspaper as being opposed, and he had come before council a second time.

Mayor Gillespie asked Henry if Golis and he were good friends. Henry replied that they were on speaking terms.

Big Side Show Of Convention Is Under Way

Republican National Committee Meets To Settle Southern Differences

LENROOT ENGAGED AS HOOVER COUNSEL

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 4.—The annual side show that always accompanies a Republican national convention—the settlement of differences between the lily-whites and the blacks-and-tans of the southern states—got under way here today with the meeting of the Republican national committee.

Seventy-three votes in the convention are involved in this year's contests, representing factional quarrels in eight states and one territory.

The candidacy of Herbert Hoover is involved in virtually every contest, and the Hoover managers were alert and watchful as the sessions got under way.

So militantly alert were the Hoover people, in fact, that they established an innovation for contest hearings by employing Ex-Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin to act as general counsel for all Hoover contesting delegates, irrespective of what state they represented or whether they were the contestees or the contestants. Veterans of these quadrennial shows could not recall an individual candidate ever employing a general counsel before in such a broadscope manner. Lenroot had several legal assistants. In addition, there were other prominent Hoover leaders scattered about the hearing room, including Ex-Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States—all of which attested to the military alertness and efficiency of the Hoover organization.

Rheumatism And Neuritis Gone; Liver Benefited

Elderly Local Lady Declares Ten Herbs Did Her A World Of Good.

"For years I have been troubled considerably with rheumatism, especially in the spring, but I have not had any sign of rheumatism this spring, for which I give full credit to 'Ten Herbs,' was the statement of Mrs. Eva Diamond, 824 Morton Street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this new herbal medicine to crowds of men and women.

"I have been troubled with neuritis in my back for a long time," continued Mrs. Diamond, who is 76 years old, and has lived in this city all her life." At times, I could hardly get around. My liver was inactive. I was subject to dizzy spells, and lacked ambition. For years I was compelled to use laxatives.

"I am satisfied now that the statements of praise for Ten Herbs that I read in the paper are true, for your medicine has done me a world of good. It drove the rheumatism out of my system, and rid me of neuritis. My liver is more active, and I have been relieved of constipation. I can do all my work now, and really enjoy doing it. I am more than pleased to tell all my friends of the great benefits I have received from Ten Herbs. In fact, I cannot endorse your medicine too highly."

Many reports are being received from men and women throughout this entire section, telling of the surprising benefits Ten Herbs has given them in relieving sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Ten Herbs also gives the whole system a thorough cleansing, eliminating poisonous waste matter and impurities, which often are the cause of much suffering. There is no other medicine like Ten Herbs—that is why so many are using and praising it.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Claims Liquor For His Sons Wedding, Must Pay $500 Fine

BUTLER, Pa., June 4.—When Louis Wasko of Zeigler avenue heard that prohibition enforcement officials were in the vicinity, he hurried home and threw a liquor still over the fence into a heap of refuse. It happened that County Detective Frank T. Wigton and Constable L. Lawrence Keister were working that side of the fence, and they placed Wasko under arrest.

When the alleged offender was brought before Judge John R. Henninger yesterday he pleaded that he had been making some liquor for the coming wedding of a son, and that he had not sold any of it. The officers testified that they found two kegs of wine, a barrel of mash and a quantity of home brew when they visited Wasko's home.

Judge Henninger imposed a fine of $500 and costs on Wasko, but omitted the usual workhouse term that is customary with most liquor offenders.

Jack Hulme Says Life Saving Corps To Be Organized

Meeting Arranged For Wednesday Evening At New Castle Y. M. C. A.

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 4.—Announcement was made here today by Jack Hulme that there has been organized in New Castle a branch of the Red Cross Life Saving Corps and that the New Castle Flying Squadron organization will become a part of the new corps.

Pat Demsey, secretary of the Red Cross in New Castle, will head the organization when he returns from Hot Springs where he is now in the pursuit of business activities. In the course of the absence of Mr. Demsey, Jack Hulme, well-known in New Castle as an authority on aquatic questions, will take charge of the organization of the new system.

This branch chapter will take in the whole of Lawrence county and a meeting has been arranged for Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. in New Castle. To this meeting, which will begin promptly at 8:15 daylight saving time, all the junior and senior members of the Red Cross life saving corps are requested to come.

Alex Samuel of the Flying Squadron has already procured a quantity of life saving equipment which will be used by the new organization. At the meeting all the names of the Flying Squadron members and the Red Cross members will be taken along with their respective addresses in order that and up-to-date record may be filed.

Hickman's prosecutors fear his lawyers will use the incident in an insanity plea to save him.

Directs Letters Be Issued On Will Of Violetta Osgood

In a controversy over the will of the late Violetta L. Osgood, an opinion was handed down by Judge Chambers this morning in which the register and recorder is directed to issue letters of administration to the Peoples Savings and Trust Company. After Mrs. Osgood's death a will was probated and letters issued. The will was dated March 9, 1922. Afterwards a later will, dated December 12, 1922, was found. It was then asked that the first will be declared void and the letters revoked. This has been done and the appointment this morning is the final order. A similar order, authorizing the issuing of letters to the Peoples' Savings and Trust Company, was made in the case of Mary E. Dickson, in which there was some objection over the granting of letters.

Two Auto Drivers Are Under Arrest

Charges Are Preferred Against Them By Chief Of Police

Two men arrested by members of the police force over the week end were today charged with operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor.

Officer James Hagan arrested Robert Kerr on Liberty street, when he found him driving in a manner that indicated something wrong. He and the other officers found Kerr to be under the influence of liquor. Kerr was taken before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton today, where Chief of Police C. C. Horner charged him with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He will be given a hearing later.

F. E. Watson was arrested by Officers Longstreth and Lockard on Saturday on Grant street. He was driving an automobile and was found to be intoxicated. He was today taken before Alderman O. H. P. Green, where a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor was made against him by Chief of Police C. C. Horner. He will be given a hearing later.

County Detective Arrests Alleged Sheep Stealer

After a week's search for the sheep thieves who took eight sheep from the farm of Guy Fullerton near Enon Valley, County Detective William G. Fleming has arrested Charles Smith, a farmer who lives on the Enon road, charging Smith with the crime.

Three of the sheep have been recovered, these being on the Shaffer farm in this vicinity, the other five having been killed according to the officer. The three recovered were sold to a local butcher who in turn traded them because they were too small to kill.

Smith is in the hands of the state police today undergoing a severe grilling.

Boy Is Injured; Struck By Auto

Ronald Horchler of Matilda avenue, R. D. No. 2, reported to the police Sunday night that he was driving east on West Washington street in front of Jack Otto's residence, when Robert Otto, aged 12, stepped out from the curb in front of his car. The boy was knocked to the ground by the automobile. He got up and ran into his home. He was taken to a physician by Mr. Horchler, where it was found that he had sustained a badly skinned knee, also that his right elbow and the side of his face had been bruised to some extent. His injuries were not considered serious.

League Delegates Reopen Sessions

Briand And Stressemann Missing As League Council Meets Today

GEN. BETTANCOURT DELIVERS SPEECH

(International News Service)

GENEVA, June 4.—Two of the most spectacular and dominant delegates were absent today when the fiftieth session of the League of Nations council met at noon. They were Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, of France, and Gustave Stresemann, foreign secretary of Germany. Both were kept away by illness.

It had been anticipated that the American proposals for a treaty outlawing war would be discussed in detail in informal conferences here, but the absence of the French and German statesman knocked out any such plan. It is likely, however, that Dr. Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, will take advantage of the occasion to discuss the American proposals with sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary.

Gen. Bettancourt, of Cuba, opened the session with a speech reviewing the work that has been done. Afterwards it was announced that the council has accepted a donation of $60,000 from the Rockefeller foundation to fight epidemics and that a gift of $5,000 from the American social association has been accepted for use in improving the social conditions of children.

Junk Dealer Buys Defunct Mine

(International News Service)

MERCER, Pa., June 4.—Modern mining equipment of the defunct Mercer Iron & Coal company at Stoneboro has been sold to Joe Buntman, junk dealer, for $3,000, it was said today. The mines have not operated for months and the sale of the equipment is taken as an indication that the mine will be abandoned.

Wampum Man Is Seriously Injured

W. H. Ferrell of 1801 Highland avenue, reported to the police Sunday that he was going north on Mahoning avenue in his machine and had made a left hand turn into McKinley street to turn around. W. H. Welman of Mahoningtown, had stopped his car and truck to permit Ferrell to complete his turn, when Wendall Stewart of Wampum, ran around the Welman machines and into the Ferrell machine. Both cars were damaged.

Wendall Stewart of Wampum, was very seriously injured and was removed to the New Castle hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a fracture of the skull and severe lacerations of one hond. His condition was today reported by the hospital authorities as being quite serious.

Must Train Dogs In Open Season

District Game Protector Is Instructed To Enforce Law's Provisions

Frank N. Johnson, district game protector, has been instructed by the game commission of Pennsylvania to apprehend any person or persons found attempting to train dogs at times other than during the open training season. It has been declared unlawful to train dogs to chase raccoons at any time between March 1 and August 19, inclusive, under the ruling of the attorney general's department.

It has been customary in some sections of the commonwealth for persons to lead tame raccoons out into the open fields or woods, or to make a drag from the nest of tame raccoons, and then permit hounds to follow the track. The game laws of Pennsylvania at the present time permit the training of dogs upon raccoons and other game except elk, deer and wild turkeys, from August 20 to the last day of the following February, both dates inclusive. During this period dogs may be trained to chase raccoons at any time during the day or night.

The board of game commissioners has instructed their officers in the field to apprehend any persons attempting to train their dogs upon raccoons or other game when it is not done during the open training season.

It is the belief of the board that the sportsmen of Pennsylvania will co-operate in the enforcement of this provision of the law, so that it will not be necessary to make any prosecutions of raccoon hound owners. The open season for raccoons shall be from October 15th to November 30th, inclusive, Sundays excepted. The season's bag limit shall be 15 animals. The open season for trapping raccoons shall be for the month of November only.

Youth Is Slain Near Girl's Home

MASSILLON, O., June 4—Police still were baffled today by the mysterious killing of Lester Boyd, 17, member of a prominent family, in West Brookfield, a suburb of Massilon, who was shot to death last night a few minutes after he had left his girl friend, Miss Ellen Fischter, 17, whom he escorted home from a school party.

A motorist found the body huddled along the walk near the girl's home. Police are entirely without clues. It was at first believed that some jealous youth might have been responsible for the slaying but this theory was exploded by Miss Fichter, who said she had no other friends who could have wished to harm Boyd, and that she was acquainted with the youth only through his friendship with Peter Fichter, her brother.

Scion Wins Parole

Parole of Jack Durand, above, foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Durand, Lake Forest, Ill., millionaires, from Joliet penitentiary, has been passed on by the state parole board. Durand was convicted in October, 1925, of stealing a pearl necklace from Miss Hester White, daughter of the president of Armour and company. His foster parents were reported to have spent a small fortune in his defense.

Baccalaureate At Westminster

College Seniors Hear Address By President, W. Charles Wallace, Last Night

REV. RAYMON KISTLER SPEAKS IN MORNING

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 4. — Two services held in the United Presbyterian church here yesterday marked the opening exercises of the seventy-fourth commencement of Westminster college.

The morning service was held under the auspices of the Student Christian Associations and Dr. Raymon Kistler of Rochester, N. Y., was the speaker. In the evening President W. Charles Wallace delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the members of the 1928 graduating class.

Besides a very inspirational address given by Dr. Kistler, the morning service was beautified by a special musical number sung by the college choir and a duet sung by Miss R. Guilliams and Mr. A. Davis of the college musical conservatory.

With the entrance of the seniors formally attired in their academic caps and gowns and led by two members of the junior class the baccalaureate service began at 8 p. m. Many of the the townspeoples as well as most of the college students heard Dr. W. C. Wallace, college president, deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the seniors so that the church was crowded.

A committee of members of the junior class were responsible for the decoration of the church for this service. These students were: Luther Braham, James Guthrie, Helen Reese, and Agnes Freeman. Four coeds and four men of the junior class acted as ushers.

Plans To Repeat Former Success

ETHEL BROOKOVER,

You doubtless remember Ethel Brookover in "Pollyanna" as the sharp-tongued, stern-hearted old maid aunt whose chief amusement is taking the joy out of life. Tonight she will again appear on the senior high school stage, but this time in a very different and much happier role.

In the senior play, "The Poor Nut" she takes the part of Marjorie Blake a pretty, bob-haired co-ed, joyous and cheerful as sunshine itself and so friendly that everyone from the professor of Botany to the gawky freshman makes obeisance. This young lady is as full of practical ideas as she is is of cheerful sentiments. She knows how to put the timid person at his ease, how to subdue the overconfident, how to get what she wants and get it gracefully. In the course of the play her happiness is seriously threatened. To say just how the threat came would be telling. We will just hint that it had something to do with the "poor nut" himself. "Marjie" is no "nut" in the way she handles the situation and Miss Brookover's interpretation of the part is original, entirely lacking the flavor of the 'chestnut."

The "New Life" says G. O. P. stands for Grand Oil Party. But at that one had already been used by the jokesmiths 126,432 times, the "new" probably refers to the make-up.

If you know how many generations there are in 1928 years, you know about how many times some smart fellows have abolished religion.

Catches Boy As He Strips Car

T. J. Donovan of 22 South Beaver street, on Saturday caught two boys in the act of stripping his car, which was parked in the rear of his home. He succeeded in capturing one of the boys, Stanley Blasnik, the other getting away. He turned the boy over to Officer Thomas Lynch, who took him to the Central Police station. He was turned over by the police to J. M. Dunlap, juvenile court officer, he being under parole to that officer. From him, it was learned that the other boy in the case was a brother and he will be taken into custody and also turned over to the juvenile court officer.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Great Railway Strike—1877

IN 1877, DURING THE ADMINISTRATION OF PRESIDENT HAYES, A DISASTROUS STRIKE, BEGINNING AS A PROTEST AGAINST A REDUCTION IN PAY, BROKE OUT ON THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD. THE STRIKE SPREAD THROUGH THE NORTHERN STATES UNTIL 100,000 MEN WERE OUT AND THE STRIKERS HELD 7,000 MILES OF TRACK.

THE STRIKE LED TO SERIOUS RIOTS AND ACTS OF VIOLENCE. PITTSBURG WAS THE STORM CENTER. ROUND HOUSES, SHOPS AND TRAINS OF CARS WERE DESTROYED AND MANY PERSONS KILLED AND WOUNDED.

UNABLE TO CONTROL THE SITUATION WITHIN THEIR RESPECTIVE STATES, THE GOVERNORS OF PENNSYLVANIA, MARYLAND, WEST VIRGINIA AND ILLINOIS APPEALED TO THE PRESIDENT FOR FEDERAL TROOPS TO RESTORE ORDER AND PROTECT PRIVATE PROPERTY. FORTUNATELY, THE SOLDIERS QUELLED THE DISTURBANCE WITHOUT THE USE OF FORCE.

THIS STRIKE, THE FIRST GREAT LABOR REVOLT IN OUR HISTORY, FAILED AND PROVED COSTLY NOT ONLY TO THE OPPOSING PARTIES, BUT TO THE PUBLIC. THE TOTAL LOSS IN WAGES AND DIVIDENDS, DAMAGE TO PROPERTY AND INTERRUPTION TO BUSINESS WAS CLOSE TO ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS.

"Jewie" Coen Hurls Steady Game As Mates Pound Ball Hard To Take Victory

New Castle Wins Seventh Straight Game At Home; Leonard Gets Three Hits

By "BUGS" WALTHER

JEWIE Coen was complete master of the Canton team Saturday afternoon at Centennial field as the New Castle club rang up its seventh straight victory on the home soil. The final score was 6 to 3. It was an O. & P. League game. The contest was featured by extremely heavy swatting on the part of the locals.

Locals Get Jump

New Castle tallied enough runs in the first two innings to carry off the victory, but as the game bore on the locals hammered out two more runs and doubled the count on the visitors. Earhart had the hurling assignment for the Cantonites and was found for twelve solid blows, of which five were for extra-bases. The tall lanky Canton pitcher was anything but effective and walked seven men. Coen allowed but five hits, and fanned five men.

Despite the fact that both teams kicked up many plays and were charged with five errors between them, the fielding at times was sensational. Three fast double plays, two by Canton and one by New Castle held the score down.

Canton tallied a lone run in the first inning, and for a time things looked tough for Coen, but he pitched himself out of a bad hole, after Evans and Curtis had been set back. Harsh was safe at first when Coen threw wild to first base and the Canton man advanced to second. Arndt shot a single over second and Harsh tallied. Whitehouse was fanned by Coen on five pitched balls, for the third out. New Castle retaliated in their half of the first stanza and drew up with a pair of runs to take the lead. Hogan was safe when his hot liner was deflected by Earhart but was not recovered in time to catch the speedy New Castle captain. Grimes tripled over third base and Hogan raced home. Leonard singled and Grimes scored. McCullough was given a walk, and Leonard scored from second when Whitehouse allowed a throw from Harsh to get away from him. Shannon was safe on a fielder's

Sisler Drops From League, But Not Majors

By JACK SORDS.
Sports Cartoonist Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

When George Sisler was sold to the Senators last winter for the reported price of $25,000 it caused considerable surprise George had led his team in batting with an average of .327 and though an attack of sinus trouble had robbed him of much of his old time form he was still regarded as one of the best first basemen in the game. But George slipped considerably with Washington and when the Braves obtained him after all the American league teams had waived him it caused little excitement.

It is unfortunate when a player of Sisler's calibre is forced to drop so fast. In 1922 he led the league in batting with an average of .420 and was selected as the league's most valuable player. He was getting better year by year and a long future of starring similar to that enjoyed by Ty Cobb was predicted for him. But right there at the height of his career he was forced from the game for a whole year with sinus trouble, never to regain his old form. But George can still hit and every fan is hoping that he will experience a reversal of form in the field.

Sisler started as a pitcher with the Michigan university team. When he joined the Browns his ability to hit earned him a position at first. He managed the team for three years being deposed in 1926. He was sold to the Senators last winter.

Thiel Cancels Field Meet At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 4—Westminster completed its 1928 varsity track schedule with the tri-state conference meet at Beaver Falls on Memorial Day. The Thiel meet scheduled for tomorrow as part of the commencement week activities was cancelled by the Thiel authorities Saturday.

In the five meets in which the United Presbyterians were engaged this year a very creditable showing was made. Grove City was defeated at Grove City, the blue and white runners lost to Carnegie Tech by three points and to Allegheny by eight points, Geneva defeated the Westminster team by a 91-44 score and third place was won in the conference championship.

Thirteen members of the squad won letters this season. These men are Captain William Hartwell, New Wilmington; Kenneth Delahunty, Iselin; Deane Osborne, Youngstown, O.; Orvill Mirtz, Greenville, Tenn.; Walter Hutchison, New Wilmington; Samuel Stewart, McKeesport; Russell Boone, Turtle Creek; Louis Peresenyi, Turtle Creek; Robert Bucher, New Wilmington; Henry Bucher, New Wilmington; Elmer Myers, Sharon; Kenneth Hemer, New Kensington and William Crowell, Sharon. Clare Swisher of New Castle, student manager, was also awarded a letter.

Delahunty who led the tri-state conference in basketball scoring during the past year, was high scorer in track also. Counting relays the points scored by the members of the squad are as follows:

Delahunty	49
Mirtz	48
Hutchison	30 1-4

Pirates Win From Dodgers

Fourteen-Inning Game At Brooklyn Featured By Near Riot

SCOTT'S SINGLE BREAKS DEADLOCK

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 4—Pete Scott's fifth hit of a fourteen inning game drove two Pirates home yesterday and the Pittsburgh team started their eastern invasion with a 9-7 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The game was a slamfest from start to the end and was featured by twelve extra base hits and a near riot. Umpire Charley Moran ruled Startz had trapped Traynor's shorty fly in the ninth after a great run. With two out, two runs scored on the decision pop bottles were hurled from no casualties resulted.

After order had been restored among the 25,000 spectators the Dodgers scored twice, tied the score in the last half of the ninth the deadlock holding until the fourteenth.

Paul Waner and Wright singled and Barnhart sacrificed. After Traynor had received an intentional pass, Scott singled, sending Waner and Wright home.

Grimes and Petty were relief workers. Grimes hurled the last nine innings and gave three hits. The box score:

The Senator From Alabama

By Feg Murray

Enrolled near the top of the list of five leading batsmen in the American League you will find the name, "Barnes, Washington", and the average opposite it is not much below the .400 mark. In fact, it was an even .400 when that interesting young man had played in 25 games. If you will look in the roster of the Washington ball club you will find the name of "Barnes, Emile" listed as an outfielder, and discover that he bats left, throws right, is 22 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds and lives in Suggsville, Ala. Also that he batted .292 with Birmingham and Washington last year.

It is not that information, however, that makes young Mr. Barnes so interesting. Before he came under the coaching influence of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, he starred in an entirely different line of athletic endeavor, and the trusty right arm that now throws baseballs for Clark Griffith used to throw forward passes for the Alabama "Crimson Tide".

A program of the Alabama-Stanford football game is at hand. This game was played New Year's Day, 1927. Emile Barnes (captain) played quarterback, and his nickname is down for posterity to gaze at. It is "Lovely". Playing in a backfield with two other redheads, Tolbert Brown and Herschel Caldwell, Red Barnes and the Crimson Tide tied Stanford, 7 to 7. A year before Red had taken a prominent part in the 20-19 defeat of Washington at Pasadena.

Grant Gillis of the Senators; Andy Cohen of the Giants; Riggs Stephenson of the Cubs, and Joe and Luke Sewell of the Indians, also played football at the University of Alabama.

Pitt Winner In Tennis Contest

Westminster Racquet Wielders Are Defeated By Pitt Netmen

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 4—Defeat again stalked at the heels of the Westminster netmen when they lost, 6-0, to the University of Pittsburgh team in a match played here Saturday afternoon.

The feature match of on otherwise slow meet was the first singles encounter, in which Bryon Bauer defeated Bill Clark by a close score in both sets. A high wind and a cloudy sky contributed to the lack of brilliance in all except the first two singles matches.

The summary follows:

Singles

Clark of Westminster lost to Baure of Pitt, 6-4, 6-4.

Schaffer of Westminster lost to O'Loughlin of Pitt, 6-4, 6-4.

Robinson of Westminster lost to Caleb of Pitt, 6-3, 7-5.

McQuiston of Westminster lost to Westerbilt of Pitt, 6-4, 7-5.

Mansell of Westminster lost to Hadden of Pitt, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4.

Doubles

Clark and Schaffer of Westminster lost to Bauer and O'Laughlin of Pitt, 6-2, 6-1.

Fathers And Sons Enjoy Outing At Dick Victor Camp

Andy Kerr Addresses 125 At Banquet Saturday Night; New Castle People Attend

(Special To The News)

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., June 4. — School, business, and the environs of the city were cast aside this week-end when one hundred and twenty-five fathers and sons gathered at the Dick Victor Camp for Boys to participate in a gala two day outing, consisting of a Fathers' and Sons' banquet and a two day program of horse-back riding, canoeing, baseball, and other activities.

Fathers were afforded the privilege of coming into closer contact with their boys and unquestionably journeyed home a great deal wiser after their two day stay. The boys had "one great time" and their daddies were even more enthused over the success of the new stunt, tried for the first time in camp history, and everyone was unanimous in their opinion that the affair should be made an annual event.

Everybody Happy

Shortly after noon Saturday contingents from Pittsburgh, Butler, Lakewood, Cleveland, Youngstown, Washington, and neighboring towns began to arrive and until late yesterday afternoon happiness reigned at the Dick Victor Camp.

At the banquet Saturday evening, Dick Victor, owner of the summer home, gave a most interesting talk to the Daddies on the many responsibilities of boys. He urged them to come in closer contact with their boys.

Dick introduced Andy Kerr, head coach at W. & J. college, as the principal speaker of the evening and Mr. Kerr in a straight forward manner told the Fathers what they owed their sons and told the boys what their daddies expected of them. He stressed courage, obedience, loyalty, teamwork, and sportsmanship.

Horn Draws Laughs

Lester Horn, camp comedian, brought forth bursts of laughter from his audience by his clever presentation of "Levinsky at the Wedding." Harry J. Cohen, Jr., music director and band leader, pleased with several of his own selections on the piano. Cohen is reputed as one of the best pianists in this part of the state. He at present is studying music at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh.

At the close of the program Dick Victor presented a new 18 foot canoe to Bobby Young, 7 year old chap of Lakewood, O., for signing nine boys for this summer camp season. Bobby was one of the faithful midget campers of 1927 and showed his interest in the camp by busying himself during the winter season and urging his "pals" to join for which he was duly rewarded by being presented this handsome canoe.

Hold Church Service

Church services were held at camp Sunday and in the afternoon the two day meeting was brought to a close.

Many new improvements have been made at the camp this year and everything is in readiness for the big opening on Saturday, June 30. One hundred and thirty boys are enrolled at present and it is hoped to secure an additional fifty campers before the season begins.

Johnny Kraft, head of the swimming department, and Dick Deverall, midget counsellor, both of New Castle were present. Charles W. Nolan and son Charles, Jr., also of New Castle visited the camp Sunday.

Presbyterian Church Program

ELLWOOD CITY, June 4.—This evening the members of the Week Day Religious Education committee will conduct a meeting in the church.

Wednesday evening the officers and teachers of the primary department will enjoy a tureen dinner. Later the weekly prayer meeting will be observed.

QUOTA CLUB

ELLWOOD CITY, June 4.—Members of the Ellwood City Quota club will conduct their semi-monthly dinner-meeting Tuesday evening in the dining room of the Methodist church.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, June 4.—Admitted Saturday, Harry Davis and Joseph Blockevitz. Discharged, Mrs. Elizabeth Rutter, Peter De Meyko and Harry Davis of this city.

Junior League

The C. C. Sluggers won a forfeit game from the Indians on Saturday afternoon when the Indians failed to show up for a league scheduled game at Glasser Field.

The Windjammers won from the General Radio team 13 to 5 in a game played at Elders Field. It was a Junior Recreation League game. Quinn on the mound for the Windjammers allowed but nine hits and kept them scattered. The hitting of V. Maki, C. Green, and P. Quinn featured the contest.

The Keystones won by the forfeit route over the Pontiacs when the latter team failed to show up at the Pontiac field for a league scheduled game.

The Mud Divers defeated the Dimlings 9 to 5 in a game played at the P. & L. E. field. The pitching of Gilmore who allowed but four-hits was a feature of the game.

HEAVY HITTING FEATURES GAME

choice, Curtis tossing out Yoxcheimer at second. Gibson hit into a double play to end the inning, Curtis to Harsh to Whitehouse.

New Castle hopped on Earhart for another pair of runs in the last of the second inning. McCoy lined one at Ross the Canton third baseman that was too hot to handle, Coen flied out to Evans, Hogan banged one over second and McCoy tallied. Hogan went to third on play for McCoy at home, Grimes walked and stole second, and Leonard tallied Hogan with a double to right field. McCullough was thrown out by the pitcher for the third out.

Canton Tallies

The third inning failed to produce any runs, but Canton tallied one in the fourth. Arndt singled to left for the start of the chapter. Whitehouse lined one to center field that Hogan gathered in after a long chase, Zeiger lined to left field and Leonard dropped the ball after going up the small bank near the fence, with Arndt going to third, Ross fanned, and Ripple walked filling the bases, Arndt tallied from third on a queer play that the umpire called a balk on the part of Coen.

New Castle's fifth run came in the final half of the fifth inning, Grimes singled to start the frame, Leonard singled to right, McCullough flied out to Zeiger who made a sensational catch of the hard hit ball and grabbed it while running full speed ahead, Yoxcheimer doubled inside the left field line and Grimes scored, Shannon ended the orgy by popping out to Curtis who threw to Harsh doubling up Yoxcheimer at second.

Freak Killing

The seventh inning found Canton scoring another run, Ross the first man to face Coen walked, Ripple doubled to deep center and, Earhart tapped on to Coen who trapped Ripple between second and third with Shannon making the putout, and Shannon in turn trapped Earhart between first and second with Yoxcheimer making the putout, the catcher having one to first base to back-up McCoy, it was a rather freak play the trapping of two men on the same play in the same inning. Evans was an easy out.

The final score of the game was made by New Castle in the eighth inning. McCoy was the first man to bat and was given a base on balls, Coen sacrificed McCoy to second on a tap to Earhart, Hogan drew a walk, and Grimes flied out to Zeiger in left field. Leonard smacked a single, his third hit of the game into left field and McCoy tallied from second.

A Canton rally in the ninth inning was nipped in the bud by a lightning double play, Zeiger led off by socking a long fly to Hogan in center-field, Lash batted for Ross and singled over third base, Ripple smote a wicked liner that Shannon gathered in, tossed to Grimes who threw to McCoy for a double killing.

Sensational fielding was turned in by Hogan and Evans the rival center fielders, with both players having four putouts. Zeiger in left-field for Canton also played a fine game taking care of three hard hit liners.

AN ORDINANCE

Providing for the grading of Cascade Street from Butler Avenue South to City Line near East Washington Street, and for the payment of the damages, costs and expenses thereof and for the assessment thereof upon the abutting properties.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Council of the City of New Castle, Pa., that the cartway of Cascade Street, from Butler Avenue South to City Line near East Washington Street, be reduced to grade and graded its entire width, at the cost and expense of the abutting property owners, according to benefits, against which properties the said costs and expenses are hereby assessed, and the same are appropriated to the payment of the said work, which is to be done and paid for subject to the provisions of the "General Improvement Ordinance" of the said City, its supplements and amendments and other ordinances of the said City pertaining to grading. All damages resulting from the said improvement shall be assessed and paid for in the manner provided by law.

I, Cordelia Zeigler Jones, City Clerk, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing ordinance has been regularly introduced and is now pending in the council of the city of New Castle Pa. In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and affix the seal of the city, this 28th day of May, 1928.

CORDELIA ZEIGLER JONES,
City Clerk.

Americanism: Using money you haven't earned to buy things you don't need to impress people you don't like.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 4.—Speculative industrial and railroad stocks were turned over in large volume in the early trading today without important changes in prices. Profit-taking and professional selling was counterbalanced by the enormous outside demand for stocks of the motor, copper, oil, steel, equipment and other American producers and the passing of the June "squeeze" in the money markets is expected to add to purchasing facilities of the American public.

Call money was unchanged at 6 per cent.

General Motors was freely offered around 200, and was unable to improve on its opening price of 202. Packard Motor, Chrysler, Studebaker and other motor shares sold within a small radius of Saturday's closing prices. Radio dropped back 6 points to 217. Keen offerings crowded the market. The packing companies stocks were active and strong, under the lead of Armour, for which higher earnings are estimated this year.

Bullish pools rushed along a few of the speculative industrials in the second hour, making their favorites "active on the tape." Railway Steel Springs featured the equipments. Victor Talking Machine the specialties and Armour of Illinois the packing stocks. U. S. Steel was well bought around 145.

Swiss Shoots Self, Then Falls 160 Feet

NIAGARA FALLS, June 4.—Shooting himself in the temple while standing on the Canadian side at the brink of Horseshoe Falls with his back to the cataract Pierre L. Bovard 22 of Villette Vaud, Switzerland fell 160 feet to the river's edge last night. Police recovered the body several hours later.

Bovard had left his overcoat on the iron railing near the falls. There is nothing to indicate a reason for the suicide. Bovard arrived here from Switzerland on May 14. He was unemployed.

Huge Amount Is Offered Holder Of Race Ticket

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 4.—Godfrey Tearle, English actor and half brother of Conway Tearle, had an opportunity today to net a modest fortune on his ticket in the Calcutta Derby Sweep—a racing pool upon the derby, which will be run on Wednesday at Epsom.

Tearle, who purchased the ticket for his wife, drew Ranjit Singh, owned by Aga Kahn, one of the first five horses favored to win the world famous race. Among the offers already received was one of $30,000 for a half interest in the ticket.

The holder of the winner of the Calcutta Derby Sweep this year stands to win more than $1,250,000.

YOUNGSTOWN, June 4.—Search for the abductor of Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10-year-old Youngstown girl, whose body was found near Salem Sunday after she had been missing from home for 10 days, was at a standstill today.

The last suspect has been released. Officers said they had nothing to give out on the case. Searchers in the vicinity of the spot where the body was found continued their efforts to find clues and police were still firm in their determination to track down the kidnaper Mrs. Rosenbaum was said by members of their family to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Boasts Two Winners

DEAN LUCAS PAULINE GRAY

The little town of Congress, Ohio, is justly proud of its two young citizens. Miss Pauline Gray is back from Washington with the second prize in the national spelling bee, and the same school sent Dean Lucas to Washington last year to win the first prize. This is a unique record for any town to hold.

Question Coolidge About Nicaraguan Policy In Force

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—"Would your wife and you want your son John to risk his life in marine rule in Nicaragua? If not, what right have you to send the marines there?"

These questions were asked President Coolidge today in an open letter from the people's lobby which protested marine occupation of Nicaragua.

A proposed loan to the Diaz regume and a proposed survey for a canal in Nicaragua apparently are efforts "to make marine rule stick in Nicaragua," the letter said.

Say Youth Admits Theft Of Autos

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 4.—A 19-year-old youth today was said by police to have confessed to the theft of between 45 and 50 automobiles and participation in several store robberies, including the attempted looting of the Columbia Pharmacy in Wilkinsburg on April 20 in which Charles Beatty, 20, was fatally wounded.

The youth, police say, gave his name as Robert Casey. He was captured yesterday afternoon after an automobile chase which ended in East Liberty.

Lucy Rosati Is Essay Winner

Senior High School Girl Wins History Essay Contest Of D. A. R.

TO READ ESSAY AT GRADUATION

Miss Lucy Rosati, daughter of Mrs. Angeline Rosati of 216 South Jefferson street, this city, has been adjudged the winner of the history essay contest conducted recently at the Senior High school by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, among the United States history students, and as a result will receive her award from a member of the organization sponsoring the contest at the commencement exercises of this year's class, to be held in the Scottish Rite cathedral auditorium on Wednesday evening, June 6.

Honorable mention was made of the compositions of Betty Steen and Elmer Williams.

The subject considered by this semester's contestants was, "The Frontier in The American Revolution," and the prize offered for the best paper on this topic was $10 in gold.

The D. A. R. has been offering a similar prize to the June graduating classes of the local school for over a period of 27 years, and the offer now stands out as one of the most coveted honors at the school. Any student of the United States history classes of the school, is eligible to compete for the honor. There were 24 students in line for the prize, this semester.

The Daughters of 1812 make a similar offer at each January graduation, their first prize being presented at the school's first mid-year commencement on January 27 of this year. Miss Dorothy Jean Wallace received the award offered at that time.

Public Library Has Prize Story

Several Copies Of "Gay Neck" Are On Shelves Of Children's Department

"Gay Neck, the Story of a Pigeon" is the book that was awarded the John Newberry prize for the best story for children at the recent convention of the American Library association, reports Miss Helen Minick, childrens' librarian at the New Castle public library. Several copies of the book are now available.

While the Newberry prize does not carry with it any monetary remunertation, yet it is highly valued by writers of childrens' fiction. This is the second time that it has been won by Dhan Gopal Mukerji, who wrote "Gay Neck".

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Saturday, you may have noticed an article concerning the new direction sign painted on the Shenango Tin mill roof. From the ground this sign stands out like a black eye on an Albino, but to get the real effect of the sign you must get up into the air.

Did a little roaming out to the New Castle airport late Saturday afternoon with my friend Swift and D. Roy Bradford invited us to take a ride in the new Ryan monoplane. A friendly gesture to be sure and one accepted as soon as it was made.

Riding in an enclosed cabin plane takes some of the kick out of air roaming, for there is none of that roaring, tearing wind. Instead a quietness comparable to the inside of a sedan, with the riding even easier.

Because there is no bottom wing on a monoplane it is possible to get an unobstructed view of the city from it and visibility never was clearer than it was Saturday. The cathedral stood out sharp and clear, albeit, small and Bill Jolly's new boxing arena looks like a pile of matches the youngsters have left on the floor.

But that tin mill sign. Clear and sharp and plain it stands out, guiding the flyer to the airport and Ed. Schultz, the pilot said that it was clear and plain from an elevation two thousand feet higher than we were.

The pilot's wife had a tea party for some youngsters out on the Harlansburg road Saturday and he swooped down low to unload a lot of confetti. The way that wind grabbed it, that confetti was probably spread out over Lawrence and Mercer counties.

As for riding, the new Ryan is nothing short of an air sedan, with no traffic cops to slow up the speed.

East Park avenue, from Highland avenue over must be a friendly sort of neighborhood. Not that the other streets up there aren't just as neighborly no doubt, but somehow this particular section has an atmosphere that is most pleasing. Last Christmas time almost every home was lighted with Christmas lights. At the present time it seems that every house has a huge spirea bush in front of it, each one trying to outdo the other in the matter of profusion of bloom.

Neat front yards, comfortable looking homes, and an air of contentment over the entire street. And the riot of spirea billowing out in front of the houses, breathing the spirit of the June we should have, instead of these rainy days.

One really should pay no attention to it, but honestly didn't you get a laugh out of Editor Howe of Texas who has accused Lindbergh of being swell headed? It seams that Lindy didn't ask Mr. Howe's advice about landing at Amarillo or something on that order and the editor is peeved. All of which is good for one triple plated snort. If Lindbergh is an example of a swell headed American, the trait should be developed. After a year's adulation by a hero worship in public, and a shower of attention from a lot of maudlin sentimentalists its a wonder if the colonel isn't heartily sick of it all. To have this chap in Amarillo call him swell headed is an example of yokel wit that calls for nothing but contempt.

The New Castle Day for Had Haid idea seems to be gathering momentum. A meeting will probably be called soon and the plan put in motion.

Coal Company To Shut Down Three Mines Is Report

Three Of Eleven Bertha-Consumers Coal Company Mines To Be Shut Down

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 4.—"To equalize production of coal by keeping the supply within the demand and afford steady operation in other mines"—this was the reason stated today by Fred E. Bowers, a receiver for the Bertha-Consumers Coal company, for closing three of the company's 11 mines.

Bertha-Consumers is the second bituminous concern to close some of its mines as the best means toward nursing the sick industry to health. The first was Consolidation Coal company, a Rockefeller organization, which ceased operation at several mines in southwestern Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia.

The three Bertha-Consumer mines ordered closed are: Jean mine at Burgettstown, Pa.; Sara mine near Charlestown, W. Va., and Elsie No. 3 mine at Elsiecoal, Ky.

Chicago Landlord Robbed Of $1,000

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 4.—When James Crawford's "For Rent" sign drew a prospective tenant to his apartment, Crawford was asked about other tenants.

"Do they pay their rent?" asked the obvious flat seeker.

"They do indeed," replied the landlord.

"Then hand it over," demanded the party of the second part who suddenly produced a revolver.

He relieved Crawford of $1,000 in currency and fled.
